

Upsets Feature Hectic Primary In Pennsylvania

Three Seasoned Congressmen Eliminated by Large Votes

Martin Swamps Davis for Republican Nomination for Governor

PHILADELPHIA, May 20 (AP)—
The unseating of three seasoned congressmen and a last-minute surprise in which a comparative youngster in politics appeared to have beaten the Democratic organization candidate for state secretary of internal affairs tonight injected fresh interest in the returns of Tuesday's voting in the Pennsylvania gubernatorial primary fight.

At the same time, the mounting returns only emphasized the triumphs of Major General Edward Martin over United States Senator James J. Davis for the Republican gubernatorial nomination; and Auditor General F. Clair Ross over Judge
Ralph H. Smith and Luther A.
Harr for the Democratic spot.

Returning from 8,056 of the state's 8,124 districts gave for governor:

Republican	Democratic
Martin 510,982
Davis 417,251
Ross 272,496
Smith 209,088
Harr 47,266

The Martin and Ross slates won down the line except for one instance, Warren K. Hess, 33-year-old reading attorney who had a place on the Guffey slate headed by Judge Smith, shot into the lead for the internal affairs nomination with nearly all the votes counted.

Returns from 7,885 districts gave Hess 229,554 and Leo A. Acherman, majority floor leader of the general assembly, 218,818.

Result Is Surprise
It was the only case where a candidate backed by either the Republican or Democratic state committees failed to win nomination.

There was no apparent explanation for it.

The congressional upsets hit U. S.
Reps. Charles I. Faddis, outspoken Democratic chairman of a House sub-committee on army matters and a frequent critic of the New Deal, Guy L. Moser, (Berks) and Benjamin Jarrett (R-Farrell).

Faddis, complained that his political opponents gerrymandered him out of office by revamping his district, combining it with some of the Allegheny county in a reapportionment plan. He was apparently whipped by Dr. Grant Furlong, Donora burgess.

52 Hour Work Week
Decreed in Britain

LONDON, Thursday, May 21 (AP)—
The labor ministry today decreed minimum working weeks of fifty-two hours in industries and forty-six in offices, with maximum annual vacations of two weeks.

Minister officials said the order could not be made compulsory but that the specified hours would be a determining factor in granting deferments from military service and authorizing employment of available labor.

"Henceforth," one source explained,
"these hours will be the guide in decisions whether firms should be permitted to retain the staffs they already have."

"If a plant is not working its staff fifty-two hours weekly it may be required to show why some of its people should not be put to work Somewhere else. If it is giving over a fortnight vacation, the ministry may decide it could spare some workers."

heavy Rains May Save Chinese Army
From Japanese in Indo-China Area

By SPENCER MOOSA
CHUNGKING, May 20 (AP)—A heavy downpour, perhaps the beginning of the months-long summer rainy season, drenched the southwestern Burma-Yunnan battlefields today as China hastily strengthened defenses along the Indo-China border to the south and fought to stem the Japanese offensive on the eastern coast, in Chekiang.

The Chinese looked to the rain as an ally which might fill the roads with landslides, wash out bridges, ravage Japanese camps with malaria and hold up for months the invaders' advance through the mountainous, sparsely populated southwestern zone.

15 Major Items
May Be Rationed
Within a Year

But List Is Kept Secret To Prevent Wave of Buying

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)— Shortages of certain goods available for civilian consumers are expected to result in rationing of fifteen major items within a year, well informed officials said tonight.

To administer these programs, as well as the big enforcement job necessary for universal price control, the Office of Price Administration contemplates a staff of 90,000 persons.

Such a growth, necessarily a rough estimate but one that is being used for preliminary budget preparations, would make Price Administrator Leon Henderson's agency the third largest in the government, outranked only by army and navy.

7,500 on Payroll
OPA now has about 7,500 on its payroll in addition to some 20,000 volunteers on local ration boards.
Officials said it is not contemplated to increase the number of unpaid workers.

The fifteen scarcity items mentioned were said to include the six already rationed or about to be:
sugar, gasoline, tires, typewriters, automobiles and bicycles.

The other nine were kept secret, for officials fear the premature disclosure of any of them might touch off a buying wave which would complicate conservation efforts easily, besides thwarting the purpose of rationing—which is to guarantee that all shall share alike in the available supplies of scarce necessities.

The hint was dropped, however, that some of the nine general categories likely to be affected would include many types of sub-classifications of goods, bringing the war home to civilians with compelling force.

Some Articles To Escape
On the other hand it was certain that some scarce articles would not be rationed despite failing supplies.
Among these are most of the "standard of living" items: the production of which has been halted to convert plants, workers, and materials to armament production—such things as radios, refrigerators and washing machines, which can be spared for war's duration.

These and perhaps certain food items like tea probably will be allowed to dwindle and possibly disappear entirely from shelves and sales floors. OPA does not consider it worth while to set up expensive and complicated rationing machinery for non-essential or luxury items.

Glamour control is next.

The War Production Board announced today it was surveying cosmetics and toiletries and at some future date would order fewer shades of lipstick, rouge and face powder.

There will be plenty of all the cosmetics that are essential, a spokesman hastened to add. The definition of essential, he said, is "having eye appeal."

However, the board feels that face powder is less essential than the smokeless variety, and plans to curb the use of essential materials like glycerine, alcohol, waxes and colors. Cosmetics lines now offered at drug store counter will be shorn of overlapping products and unnecessary sizes, either by voluntary action of manufacturers or by government control.

The use of critical materials in lipstick holders, compacts, and cosmetic packages will be curtailed, as indicated in a previous WPB announcement advising women to save such refillable items against a future shortage.

The cosmetics branch of WPB gave assurance, however, that it would "assist the production of toiletries and cosmetics for essential civilian needs where this can be done without interference with war production."

Sen. Walsh Held Not Guilty of Serious Charge

Department of Justice Finds He Did Not Visit
House of Ill-Repute

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—
Democratic Leader Barkley (KY) told a tense, hushed Senate today that a thorough investigation by the Justice department had completely exonerated Senator David
I. Walsh (D-Mass.) of an "unjustified, malicious, degrading charge" that Walsh visited a house of ill-repute in Brooklyn and could be accused "of conspiring with alien enemies" there.

Displaying documents furnished to him by Attorney General Biddle, Barkley said there was "never the slightest foundation" for statements published in the New York Post that Walsh had been a frequent visitor to a "house of degradation" in Brooklyn. The Senate leader said there were reports soldiers and sailors were "piled with liquor" there in order to obtain from them information on ship movements.

Editor Wants Probe
In New York, Ted O. Thackeray, editor of the Post, said in a statement that the paper's only aim was to "arrive at the truth openly and publicly" and that it would "continue to demand a full public Senate investigation."

Barkley's remarks about the charges and the Justice department investigation came before a crowded senate, with Walsh as one of the few absentees. Reached by reporters later, Walsh had no comment and declined to discuss any future action he might take.

Editor Makes Charge Outlining the case slowly and deliberately, Barkley said the New York Post had charged in its May 1, 1942 issue that a member of the Senate frequently was seen in a "house of degradation" in Brooklyn. Gustave Beckman, alleged operator of the house, was convicted in Brooklyn for an offense Barkley said was "too loathsome to mention in the senate or in any group of ladies and gentlemen."

The Post story said, Barkley went on, that a member of the Senate had been observed in the place talking to an alien suspected of being a "spy in behalf of the Nazis."

A few days later, he said, the Post named Walsh as the senator involved.

Barkley said a purported affidavit signed by Beckman was used as the basis of the Post's story. The Democratic leader said Beckman subsequently made statements to department of justice agents that Walsh was not the man who came to his house and identified the picture of another as being the man who did visit the place.

Another Affidavit
(The New York Post published today a further affidavit from Beckman saying that on May 15 and 16 he was questioned by the FBI at length and that the FBI "wanted me to identify someone else as Mr.
Walsh.")

(The affidavit continued in part:
"They showed me a picture of a man called 'Doc.' They wanted me to agree that this 'Doc' was the man and let it go at that. They questioned me for about six or seven hours. x x x

"They had a stenographer present when I was questioned. It was finally agreed to put down in writing that 'Doc' was the man I called

New Tax Program Doubles Amount Many Will Pay

Surtaxes of from 12 to 81
Per Cent To Replace Present Levies

By DONALD A. YOUNG
WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)— Drastically increased individual income tax ratings which would double the tax on persons who earn up to $4,000 or $5,000 and which would bring $2,750,000,000 into the treasury were approved tentatively today by the House Ways and Means committee.

The new schedules include an increase in the normal tax rate from four to six percent and a graduated scale of surtaxes ranging from twelve percent on the first $2,000 of net income to eighty-one percent on more than $200,000. Present surtaxes are from six to seventy-seven percent.

Credit for Dependents
The present ten percent earned income credit would be retained in computation of normal taxes and the credit for dependents would remain at $400. No earned income credit is allowed in figuring the surtax but the credit for dependents may be taken. The committee previously had voted to cut the exemption for single persons from $750 to $500 and for married couples from $1,500 to $1,200.

The committee's new income tax program rejected a recent suggestion by President Roosevelt that no individual be permitted to keep more than $25,000 after payment of taxes. The members also took no action on a coupled recommendation that corporations might well be confined to a more or less fixed percentage of profit.

Double Tax for Many Based on the new exemptions and rates, a single person with a net income up to about $3,000 would pay a tax at least double that of last year. At least twice as much as last year also would be paid by married persons with no dependents who have a net income up to about $4,000, and by married persons with two dependents with a net income up to about $5,000.

The new program would compel single persons with an income of about $10 a week to pay federal income taxes for the first time.
Under present law, a single man has to have an income of about $15 before he need walk up to the collection window March 15.

After completing tentative action on these rates, the committee turned to a discussion of Secretary Morgenthau's recommendation that he be given authority to collect up to ten percent of a person's taxable income from each week's pay envelope.

Carry Gigantic Loads
The informant added that most British bombing now is being done by four-engined planes with a minimum bomb load of four tons each.
Thus, he said, a thousand such planes could carry 4,000 tons of explosives — or enough "to blow anything in Germany apart."

The submarine base at St. Nazaire, France, also was strongly attacked last night, but the British said three-fourths of the bombers were sent against Mannheim.

Fourteen planes from the raiding force failed to return.

By contrast, only about twenty planes attacked a north coast English town.

Reconnaissance planes also sought the 10,000-ton cruiser Prinz Eugen, the "clay pigeon" of the German fleet, but authoritative sources said they did not know where she had gone.

Disclosing new details of the attack off Norway Sunday night, in which at least two torpedo hits on the Eugen were claimed, authorized quarters said more than fifty planes sweamed down upon the cruiser.
Acknowledging the loss of nine of their planes, the British said the cruiser was screened by forty Messerschmitts.

"There was no question of giving up our front positions because behind us there was only a heap of Goering said, "Russia's entry into Rumania and Finland showed that she intended to put Germany behind her and to increase wartime supplies of meats and dairy products."

Corn belt senators, with some support from other areas, protested that release of these grain stocks was an attempt to beat down farm prices all along the line.

The showdown on a Senate roll-call vote finally came first on a proposal by Senator Thomas (D-Okla.) that any release of government stocks be subject to a vote of the Senate.

Probably the most controversial of these was the Senate provision—accepted today 62 to 18 after nearly ten days of argument—allowing sales of government-held surplus wheat, corn and other grains at less than full parity price levels.

President Roosevelt and Secretary of Agriculture Wickard had pledged for this provision as part of their efforts to keep living from soaring and to increase wartime supplies of meats and dairy products.

Corn belt senators, with some support from other areas, protested

Britain Plans Terrific Bombing Attacks as Prelude to an Early Invasion of Nazi-Held Europe

40,000 Bombs
Dropped by RAF
On German City

Great Loads of High Ex-

Destruction of Big Chemi-

Reported

By DREW MIDDLETON

LONDON, May 20 (AP)—Forty thousand incendiary bombs and "great loads" of the biggest explosives from hundreds of bombers were showered upon the German industrial center of Mannheim last night, the British said today, and ever greater attacks employing up to 1,000 RAF and American bombing planes at night were promised for the aerial offensive against the Reich.

Air ministry quarters said the 40,000 fire bombs were dropped by one detachment of four-motored Stirlings, leaving hundreds of fires for the succeeding waves of Hal-faxes, Lancasters, Manchesteres and Wellingtons with their "heaviest high explosive bombs" to shoot at.

Intelligence reports quoting the raid said the destruction in the big chemical, armament and engine building center reminded them of Germany's ruined Baltic port of Rostock.

It was the fifty-fourth raid on Mannheim, a city of 283,000, and the first against Germany since the weather forced a lull in Britain's air offensive eleven days ago.

Lifting the curtain on the plans for this offensive, authoritative quarters said they were building up to the point where 1,000 bombers would be sent against Germany any night the weather permitted. United States planes would fly with the British, it was indicated.

"A thousand planes is not a fantastic figure," the source said.
"At present we have the facilities for sending 800 planes on raids and these can be expanded."

Victory Nearer, Hull Asserts at Press Conference

Points Out Encouraging Facts as to Probable Duration

By WADE WERNER
WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—Victory is not so far away as it seemed a few months ago, Secretary of State Hull indicated today.

He made no predictions as to the duration of the war, but suggested that any one inclined to revise previous estimates as to its duration had some rather encouraging facts on which to base calculations.

Hull was asked at his press conference whether recent developments at home and abroad had encouraged him to hope that victory for the United States might come sooner than had been expected at the beginning of this year.

Our Powers Mounting

In reply he cited the steadily increasing acceleration of the war effort of the United States. He said our powers and facilities of going forward, first in offensive-defense operations and then in outright offensive war, were mounting steadily toward a climax.

It was only natural, he suggested, that any new calculations as to the duration of the war should be made in light of those facts.

Hull's optimistic remarks were made against a background of reports from Europe indicating that German morale was deteriorating, that shortages of food and strategic materials in Hitler-dominated Europe were increasing, that the rising fury of British air raids on German objectives might soon hit a pace of 1,000 bombers a night dumping bombs on the enemy.

No Sweeping Predictions

In reply to questions of the situation across the Pacific Hull likewise avoided any sweeping predictions. He related, however, any pessimistic interpretation of reports that Japan was about to launch an all-out drive to crush Chinese resistance.

If the Chinese continue to fight as they have fought in the past five years, he said, and continue to show the same splendid spirit, there is reason to be confident that their resistance will continue to be successful.

Lee Urges Strong Force of Minute Men in Maryland

Lieutenant Colonel Would Blanket State with Reserves

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 20 (AP)—Lieut. Col. E. Brooke Lee, of the Maryland state guard, has urged Anne Arundel countians to enlist in the state reserve militia to help "blanket the state with minute men."

Lee reported nearly 9,000 Marylanders have sent in offers to serve to Adjutant General Francis Pettit and declared, "The necessity of denying community airfields, communication centers or other vital installations to an enemy should be of first importance to every Maryland resident."

Danger from Any Point

He emphasized danger might come from any point "at any time." In the event of enemy raids, Lee said, minute men could serve as a delaying force against invaders until state guardmen could reinforce them at the point of contact with the enemy.

Lee reported there now are 500 minute men in Prince George's county; 1,000 in Montgomery; 1,250 in Carroll; 500 in Frederick; 500 in Washington; 400 in Dorchester; approximately 400 in Howard; 200 in Allegany; and from 300 to 400 in Baltimore county. He said Baltimore city now boasts twenty-one reserve militia companies.

Defense Minute Men

"State guardmen," he said, "are apprehension and trouble troops while minute men are 'trouble troops' only. They won't be summoned until actual trouble arrives."

The minute man plan, Lee said, now has been accepted by Virginia, New York, and several New England states. He predicted Maryland minute men would be uniformed within six months.

ment stocks of wheat or other grains for livestock feed be restricted to at least a full parity price for corn, or about ninety-six cents a bushel now.

Approve Compromise

Senator Russell (D-Ga.), floor leader for the bill, previously had proposed that these grains be released at not less than eighty-five percent of corn parity prices, or about eighty-three cents a bushel.

By a 35 to 25 tally, the Senate first rejected the Thomas substitute and then after half an hour of parliamentary snarl approved the Russell compromise 42 to 18.

Senator Clark (D-Mo.) protested that the "whole principle of parity has been killed here today. Parity has been done to death."

KILLED IN ACTION

Nora Caveney

First of England's anti-aircraft gun girls to fall victim to the enemy is Nora Caveney. The 18-year-old girl, a member of the Auxiliary Territorial Service, was on duty working a predictor during a raid when a bomb splinter killed her.

Lewis W. Douglas Appointed Chief Of U. S. Shipping

Former Director of Budget Placed in Charge of Sea Tonnage

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—To tackle the problem of making the available supply of cargo ships do the biggest possible job of hauling war supplies overseas, Lewis W. Douglas today was appointed deputy war shipping administrator.

At the same time, Rear Admiral Howard L. Vickery was named deputy administrator for new ships.

Douglas left congress in 1933 to become President Roosevelt's first director of the budget. Later he resigned because of personal disagreement with the president's monetary and spending policies.

Recently he had been chief advisor to Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, war shipping administrator, and particularly concerned with working out transport problems with the British war transport ministry.

Douglas's duties are to assist in making best possible use of available tonnage. This involves the complicated task of routing vessels or assigning particular ships to carry particular cargoes between specific points as the need for the supplies may dictate.

Vickery's tasks will deal with the urgent phase of building new ships. Criticism has been directed at the progress of the shipbuilding program. Steel shortages have handicapped it, and the rate of launching has been unfavorably compared with the rate of sinkings.

Administration officials recently declared, however, that construction was coming along satisfactorily.

in a shrill voice that carried throughout the courtroom.

The eighth day of the trial was crisscrossed with hysterical melodrama as the state's chief witness, Murray Hirsch, told and retold his story of how and why Mrs. Reich died, putting all the blame on the three defendants.

Hirsch, who is Shonbrun's uncle, is himself under indictment and due to be tried separately for Mrs. Reich's murder. He has admitted he turned state's evidence "to save myself." And he also has admitted to being a "thief" and a "liar."

Shonbrun, in one more of the day's many unscheduled speeches, moaned, "oh my poor mother."

Not Heart Attack

After he collapsed, he was examined by Dr. Perry Lichtenstein of the district attorney's office. Although Shonbrun's counsel has said the man was suffering from a heart condition, Dr. Lichtenstein announced that the collapse was due to "a nervous reaction developing into hysteria," adding "I wouldn't say this was a genuine heart attack."

Hirsch's testimony sometimes moved the courtroom spectators to laughter.

The witness had been relating conversations among the three defendants on the day preceding the murder. Detailed plans for the robbery of Mrs. Reich were made by Shonbrun at this time, Hirsch said.

"Did you say anything to discourage him?" asked Jacques Buitenkant, chief defense counsel.

Suggested They Work

"Well, I might have said, 'If you need money you ought to go to work,'" Hirsch replied, causing a wave of laughter.

Buitenkant questioned the witness about the purchase of adhesive tape, wire and scissors—the tools with which the state claims the murder was accomplished. (Mrs. Reich's body was found bound with wire, gagged with adhesive tape, at the hotel Sutton on March 4.)

Hirsch repeated his earlier testimony that he had accompanied Cullen on a shopping tour for the articles.

The trial will be resumed tomorrow with Hirsch still on the stand.

Buxbaum Takes Office as Head AFL Organization

Paul W. England of Cumberland Is Reelected a Vice President

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
HAGERSTOWN, Md., May 20 (AP)—Robert J. Buxbaum of Baltimore, taking office as president of the Maryland and District of Columbia Federation of Labor, told delegates to the thirty-seventh annual convention today that "you are the labor movement" and "I'll never let you down."

The convention adjourned this afternoon after electing ten officers and voting to double the per capita taxes paid by the federation's 350,000 members in 200 unions to expand the organization's activities.

The increase is effective July 1. Buxbaum, a member of the Plumbers Local No. 48, Baltimore, and a federation officer for two years, said the federation had attempted to "create some unity in labor" and added he "never saw such unity as was displayed at this convention."

Cumberland Man Elected

He was elected by acclamation to succeed Joseph P. McCurdy of Baltimore, retiring from the presidency after ten years in office to assume the presidency of the United Garment Workers of America.

"If I am able to accomplish half the things Joe McCurdy has done, I will believe in my heart that I have done a big job," Buxbaum told the 342 delegates.

The six vice-presidents elected were:

E. W. Butler, Teamsters' union, Hagerstown; John Locher, Iron Workers union, Washington; Paul W. England, Machinists' union, Cumberland; Charles B. McCloskey, Bakers' union, Washington; Carl Sholtz, Electrical Workers union, Baltimore; and J. Kingston Howard, Motion Picture Operators union, Baltimore.

Locher, England and Howard are incumbents.

Frank J. Coleman of Washington was re-elected secretary and named delegate to the American Federation of Labor's convention. Robert Lester of Washington was re-elected treasurer.

Vincent J. McHenry of Baltimore was named organizer, succeeding Buxbaum.

In other final actions, the delegates voted to change the date of the annual meeting from the third to the fourth Monday in May and adopted a resolution urging establishment of an Education committee within the federation.

OPA Prices Force Closing of Mine

Raleigh-Wyoming Company Announce Shutdown at Beckley

BECKLEY, W. Va., May 20 (AP)—Maximum prices "substantially below the actual cost of producing and selling the coal" have forced closure of the big Glen Rogers mine of the Raleigh-Wyoming Mining Company, President L. T. Putman announced today.

The prices, fixed by the Office of Price Administration upon recommendation of the Bituminous Coal Division, became effective May 18. The Glen Rogers mine, located in adjoining Wyoming county and employing approximately 1,000 men, was shut down the following day.

Putman indicated the mine could not be operated unless the OPA, which has been petitioned for relief by the concern and which has held a hearing, fixes a higher maximum for the Glen Rogers coal.

The company also operates three mines in Raleigh county.

"Due to the extremely bad natural conditions," Putman said, "the Glen Rogers mine has always been a high-cost-of-production mine. It has been able to operate throughout the twenty years of its existence because of the unusually high grade of its prepared sizes of coal."

The trade has always been willing and anxious to secure domestic sizes of coal from this mine at substantially higher than average price in the smokeless field.

"The prices fixed on our coal are substantially lower than the prices we had been obtaining prior to the fixing of maximum prices and likewise substantially below the actual cost of producing and selling the coal."

Confederate Veteran Dies at Age 100

WINCHESTER, Va., May 20 (AP)—George Washington Stonaker, last of the Confederate veterans of Hampshire county, West Virginia, who recently achieved his ambition to round out a century of living, died today in the 101st year of his life at his home near Capon Bridge.

He celebrated his 100th birthday on April 27 at his home. He appeared to be in good health, but during the past week, his health began to decline.

He was a native of Hampshire county and during the Civil war, he served in Company F, Thirty-third Virginia regiment, which was attached to Stonewall Jackson's famous foot cavalry. Stonaker was engaged in farming throughout his life.

Three sons and three daughters survive.

INTERPRETING THE WAR NEWS

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

According to reports from Chungking a crisis for United Nations leadership is brewing in China which matches that in southwestern Russia where massive Russian and Nazi forces seem locked in a slow-motion, nip-and-tuck battle of ever extending front and significance.

If Chinese military spokesmen are correct, Japan has already revealed her next objective. It is a "knockout" drive against China and is evoking frantic appeals by Chinese spokesmen for additional Allied help.

Australian spokesmen are just as insistent that the Pacific front, which means Australia, shall not be neglected. Daily pleas for more American planes, men, tanks and guns to render Australia impregnable to attack and ultimately poised in offense came over the press wires from that side of the world.

Clamor for American Aid

That, too, when arrival of heavy American reinforcements in the British Isles has just been announced and while Washington is stressing by word and deed the critical importance of the flow of war materials to Russia. It comes, too, at a time when there is insistent clamor on both sides of the Atlantic for a second-front attack on Germany to aid Russia.

This indicated conflict as to what shall be sent where, and when, to man all the far separated war fronts may not be reflected in the actual Allied policy-making groups set up in Washington, London or elsewhere to promote unified strategy. It has drawn a sharp and pointed warning from President Roosevelt's veteran press secretary, "Steve" Early, however.

White House Concerned

"The grisly cause of the Axis would be that much advanced," Early said, speaking at the dedication of a huge new plant for the mass production of plane propellers, if the United Nations ever fall to quarreling among themselves as to who should get the next gun, tank, plane or propeller produced by any of them. There is at least a hint of White House irritation over the verbal barrage from Australia, China and elsewhere.

Welding the judgement of an Allied command, with world-girdling fronts to consider, into a unified strategic pattern for military operations is always a difficult task. It delayed the victory over the Central powers in the first World War. All who have read General Pershing's personal narrative of his experiences as AEF commander in meeting clashing British and French views as to how and where his troops could best be used will recall that as his most serious problem.

Have Faith in Russia

It is still true, however, that it is only on one of the many war fronts that any hope of a speedy victory to disrupt the Axis, of a victory this year that could prove decisive, has been officially voiced—and that is in Russia. Washington and London may not fully share Stalin's expressed confidence, but the hope is there.

There are some indications that Russian policy still is to keep much detailed military information a close secret even from powerful Allies. If that is true, the most probable reason is to safeguard it from unintentional leakage to the foe.

Ability to achieve surprise attacks at selected points on the vast Russian front, as Marshal Timoshenko obviously succeeded in doing in his Kharkov thrust, could spell the difference between victory and disaster for either side. The Russians have the inestimable advantage of battling in friendly regions. Every Russian behind the Nazi lines is a potential source of information for his fighting comrades as to enemy movements. The Russians are out to make the most of that, nor can they be greatly criticized for extreme precautions to guard their own plans from the foe.

Mr. Walsh. They (the FBI) insisted upon it. What else was I to do but agree to it and sign such a statement? x x x But I know that the 'Doc' they wanted me to identify as Mr. Walsh and the Mr. Walsh who visited my home are two different people.

"(The FBI asked me to sign the statement. Even though I knew it was untrue I signed it. There was nothing else I could do. x x x")

Senators Demand Action

While Barkley said he was not prepared to commit himself on a future course in the matter, his statement brought immediate demands from Senators Wheeler (D-Mont), Clark (D-Mo) and Nye (R-Ind.) that the Senate bring before it those responsible for what Clark called "a filthy conspiracy to smear a member of this body."

Wheeler asserted that the Senate ought not to let the matter drop, declaring:

"This is a diabolical attempt on the part of certain individuals in the city of New York to smear every member of the Senate of the United States who has disagreed with them on the matters of foreign policy."

Clark said Morris Ernst, attorney for the New York Post, ought to "come before the bar of the Senate and respond to questions about how deeply he is involved in this conspiracy."

Disclaiming personal knowledge of the matter, Clark said he had been informed "by a very reputable newspaper man, whose information is usually correct, that Mr. Ernst brought the story to Washington and went to the White House with it, in an attempt to interest the highest authority in Washington in an effort to smear the senator from Massachusetts."

"To the credit of the president and his advisers," Clark went on, "Mr. Ernst's suggestions were entirely rejected."

Charges Smearing Plot

Nye said he was sure that "reasonable inquiry by the Senate will reveal the existence in this country of a secret society that had been engaged for the last two years in an undertaking to gather such information as would permit the smearing of individual members of the Senate."

Thackeray's statement issued in New York said:

"Senator Barkley made his statement before the Senate after a secret investigation made apparently at the informal request of a member of the Senate and has seen fit to bring to the Senate a report of an investigation which the Senate never ordered and refused to take public notice of with a public hearing."

"The New York Post does not now nor has it ever believed in secret trials or the use of the Department of Justice as a private detective agency even in behalf of the senators and is amazed that the Senate should base its own verdict on the word of the man Beckman, the same man who was not believed by the Senate when he made the affidavits which the Post presented as a part of the evidence that a public hearing should be held to determine what the facts were in this case."

"The post will have more to say later about the unfounded and amazing charges of conspiracy made by Senator Clark of Missouri who must have known he was making them under the protection of the official immunity granted to him by virtue of the fact that he made those statements on the floor of the Senate where he could not be held legally accountable for them."

"The only conspiracy to which the Post has been a party is a conspiracy to arrive at the truth openly and publicly. The Post has demanded and will continue to demand a full public Senate investigation. Senator Barkley and his colleagues including senators Clark, Wheeler and Nye have chosen to render a verdict without letting the Senate hear the case."

Dorothy S. Backer, publisher of the Post, said that Thackeray's statement also expressed her view as publisher.

Walter Winchell Involved

Clark said the Senate ought to summon Walter Winchell, "the radio commentator who disgraces the uniform of the United States navy by appearing in it," to try to smear members of Congress. He said Winchell, in a radio talk "undertook to smear not only the senator from Massachusetts but three other members of the Senate whose names happen to begin with 'W.'"

Barkley's report, Clark continued, had made it "perfectly obvious that there has been subornation of perjury in the Beckman trial, 'to which the trial judge himself, in view of the statement from the trial judge quoted in the New York paper, must have been a party.'"

Wheeler said that a New York Post story quoted Judge Samuel Leibowitz as telling Beckman, after his conviction, that if Beckman uncovered the whole alleged spy ring the court would give him extreme leniency, otherwise the judge would give him the maximum of twenty years.

"If this man does not make a statement telling what Judge Leibowitz and the New York Post wants, he will be given twenty years," Wheeler declared.

In one talk battle, the quarters were so close that the Germans' planes could not risk helping their tanks for fear of hitting them. Red Star, the army paper, said, "Forty-six Nazi tanks were reported burned or blasted on the single field. Overhead, Soviet planes shot down seven of the wheeled German airmen, the paper added."

In another clash, fifty-one German tanks were destroyed by bigger Russian machines, it said.

To show the sort of fight it is, Red Star told of these incidents:

Breaking past the fifteen German pillboxes and large minefields defending a village, the Russians did not try immediately to push on into the village, but swiftly turned to wreck havoc among German reserves who had thought they were at a safe distance from the scene of attack.

At another point, the Two Hundred Eighty German infantry regiment was encircled at a railway station. The Germans retired to fortifications underneath the station.

The Russians seized a grain elevator about 100 yards away and with a loudspeaker commanded the Germans to surrender. The reply was a burst of fire, but after three days the Germans were caught trying to make a break from their trap.

Other sectors of the 2,000-mile front in Russia were showing new signs of activity.

A German scout plane was shot down 20,000 feet over Moscow, and fierce local fighting flared up on the Kalinin front as the Germans and Russians probed at night for soft spots in opposing lines northwest of Moscow.

On the Leningrad front, the Germans concentrated several store tanks to cover a projected infantry advance, but the Russians thwarted the thrust, Red Star reported.

In another unidentified sector, Red army paratroopers were credited with liberating several villages.

Long Blackouts In Maryland To Start in June

Details Nearly Complete for Regional Tests in the State

BALTIMORE, May 20 (AP)—A blackout lasting several hours will be conducted in all of Maryland, including Baltimore City, during the week of June 1, as a prelude to participation in a series of tests for the states in the Third Civilian Defense region.

Col. Henry S. Barrett, state director of air raid precautions, announcing the test, said he had been informed that Baltimore would be ready by that date. Rowland K. Adams, regional director, announced yesterday the regional tests would not begin until July 1 and Baltimore's inability to be ready before then was given as the reason for the delay.

Col. Barrett said the June trial would give Baltimore city a chance to rehearse steps needed for a prolonged blackout. He said there was no reason why Baltimore should not conduct several Metropolitan blackouts in preparation for the regional series.

He said details had not yet been completed for the June blackout but it was likely that street lights would remain on and traffic be allowed to move. Emphasis would be placed, he said, on blackout readiness in the homes.

Lack of a completed warning system was the only impediment to an immediate Baltimore City blackout, Col. Barrett continued. He added that the city could probably use other warning devices than those ordered and still undelivered. The county blackout machinery could function throughout Maryland on ten-minute notice he said.

(Richtofen, a cousin of the World War flier who made the name famous, directed the devastating bombing of Belgrade in April, 1941, and prepared the way with heavy dive-bombing for the parachute invasion on Crete last May. He also is a glider-transport expert.)

The Communist party paper, Pravda, denied the German high command's claims to have cleaned up all the Kerch peninsula, said Soviet troops were continuing intensive battles against superior enemy forces and predicted: "even greater battles are ahead."

The German offensive begun yesterday in the Barvenkovo and Izum sectors eighty miles south of Kharkov apparently was intended to divert the massive Russian pressure from Kharkov, key to the present situation in the Ukraine, but the Russians refused to be drawn out of position.

Soviet front-line messages said the speed of the push toward Kharkov was shown in the recapture of a village where the Germans fled so quickly that they left dinner steaming on the table.

Artillery Powerless

At another point the Thirty-first German artillery regiment was caught, unable to move, because its horses had been sent back to Kharkov for feeding and a brief rest, said the Russians.

The great plains battle area was overhung with a pall of smoke from villages being burned by the Germans to keep them from Soviet hands, the accounts continued.

In one tank battle, the quarters were so close that the Germans' planes could not risk helping their tanks for fear of hitting them. Red Star, the army paper, said, "Forty-six Nazi tanks were reported burned or blasted on the single field. Overhead, Soviet planes shot down seven of the wheeled German airmen, the paper added."

Dog Poisoning Scourge Reported

City Veterinarian, However, Says Distemper Is Cause of Some Deaths

The dog poisoning scourge that strikes Cumberland canine lovers each spring is back again, city police reported yesterday.

Calls are received at police headquarters almost daily reporting poisoned dogs. Despite the offer of rewards in past years for information leading to conviction of the persons responsible for killing the animals, the poisonings continue. Warnings by police officials likewise have gone unheeded.

Dr. Frank B. McCallum, city veterinarian, said yesterday that he has collected only five poisoned dogs this month but added that dog owners themselves probably had disposed of their pets in some cases.

The veterinarian, however, was inclined to believe that many reports of poisoned dogs are the result of distemper.

This month Dr. McCallum said he has collected seventy dogs and thirty of them were sick. In April, 167 dogs were collected and thirty of that number were sick.

Many people mistakenly believe when their dogs suffer fits and convulsions it is the result of poisoning. Dr. McCallum said, adding that the convulsions are caused by distemper.

Dog poisoning is prevalent at this time of year, however, he said, when people are planting shrubs and gardens. Most dogs poisoned, he explained, are killed by strychnine which acts within a few minutes.

A Community Service More Necessary than Ever

A BIG ANNUAL EVENT in which Cumberland people have for many years taken great pride and manifested a noteworthy civic enthusiasm is again under way—the Community Chest drive.

The Chest this year has a place as vital as ever in the community welfare, even more so. It supplies human needs that must be met and it does it in the most economical and efficient manner.

The Chest goes farther in its good works in this time of war. It serves to strengthen and support the war effort. Many families are facing added hardships as the result of the constant drain upon young manhood for the armed services, and these hardships will become greater as the year wears on, especially when the cold weather comes on.

Thus, the Chest work is a patriotic contribution to the war program as well as help to the unfortunate, the underprivileged and all others who need a helping hand. The aid extended through the Chest agencies will strengthen and fortify the social structure of the community as nothing else can. Without it the city would be set back deplorably. With it the city will be a better and safer and happier place in which to live.

The agencies combined in the Chest will help many persons to carry on. Some of them will prevent sickness, restore health and maintain it. Some will prevent broken families and rebuild them. Some will develop our boys and girls. Others will provide a community service not otherwise to be reached. Some will see to it that none goes hungry or is without decent shelter and clothing.

Demands are great at present, to be sure, but the comparatively little which one is expected to give in this combined cause cannot possibly be a personal hardship nor make the other new burdens unbearable. There is only one answer for this annual Community Chest objective, and that the people will give it as willingly and as heartily as they have in the past is quite to be expected.

Those Italian Demands For French Territory

REPORTS trickling in from Italy are to the effect that its government is moving toward a decision as to whether to go ahead with the old Italian claims to the French territories of Nice, Corsica and Tunisia in the face of a hard war in Russia.

The final word is said to rest with Mussolini. Virginia Gayda, his mouthpiece in the Giornale D'Italia, has pictured the Duce on his recent tour of Sardinia standing on a lighthouse turret "looking for a long time and reflectively toward the Rock of Corsica, which could be seen in the distance."

Gayda, however, did not speculate on Italy's formal attitude, although some foreign observers believe formal representations have already been made for the cession of the French territories. The Italian press said that Mussolini's trip to Sardinia, just south of the French island of Corsica in the Mediterranean, had a "special meaning" and referred to the "special geographic situation of these Mediterranean islands."

Recent reports have had much to do with war-weariness of the Italians, their dissatisfaction with German control. Can this purported design to demand long-desired French territories be an excuse for withdrawing from the war? In view of the German control of Italy it probably would make little difference. It is scarcely to be imagined that Hitler will give up anything until he is forced to do so. Hence, Italy appears trapped until Germany's finish, thanks to its blundering Il Duce.

A Scandal That Seems To Defy Whitewash

IT MIGHT be a good idea for Edward J. Flynn, Democratic national chairman, to suspend for a while at least his deliverance of homilies for the guidance of Republican voters. Such utterances do not harmonize with the echoes that are being heard from the Belgian paving block scandal in Bronx borough of New York city in which he was a central figure.

The paving block scandal has not been ended, it seems, despite the bill of health returned for Mr. Flynn by a special grand jury, that action of which is being stigmatized by many New York citizens as a pretty crude piece of whitewashing. The grand jury found that Flynn didn't know anything whatsoever about the hauling of the paving blocks from city supplies in city-owned vehicles and the use of them in paving a fancy court at his suburban estate with city labor.

The Bronx grand jury may not have concluded the incident as it probably intended for the reason that in its findings it found too many other unseemly things for condemnation. The press is demanding a reopening of the case and a citizens' union has called upon Mayor LaGuardia to instruct Commissioner Herlands to resume his investigations.

The grand jury showed that the use of city materials for the benefit of a private individual, who happened to be the national leader of a political party as well as the most powerful political leader in the Bronx, was only one of a number of irregularities. Hence, those demanding a thorough airing of the grand jury's findings are actuated by the cause of decent government more than by a partisan attack on Mr. Flynn. The political fellowship disclosed backs here into other New York city scandals and suggests that the Bronx is ripe for a thorough housecleaning. There were the troubles in Manhattan resulting in the Walker case, the prior sewer scandal in Queens, which resulted in its one-time borough president being sent to jail, while a malodorous situation in Kings has been under rigid investigation the last two years.

So, while Mr. Flynn hopes to get by with the whitewashing job it has all the prospects of developing into ramifications that may serve to keep it from looking immaculately pure and clean and white. Wherefore it would, indeed, seem to be politic for him not to push himself into the foreground with proffered advice as to the character and the record of men who are running or who may run for office on opposition party tickets.

Experience as a Good Driving Teacher

THE OBSERVATION has been made on numerous occasions in this department that many good things are to come out of this global war. To the list may be added a conversion to sense from foolish car driving.

An illustration is cited by the Baltimore Evening Sun in the case of a Baltimore suburbanite. In the piping days of peace and plenty of gas, this fellow used to come tearing into town, crowding, passing, weaving and dodging in efforts to beat the red lights. He was the first away when the lights flashed green. A demon driver, obsessed with the idea of "making good time."

But now, since the fellow is slowing down and driving at a moderate rate of speed in order to save gas and tires, he confesses that he hasn't noticed any appreciable difference in his driving time to and from the city.

Many drivers were likewise obsessed in former days despite all the preaching made about the general futility of the practice. Let it be hoped the present experience will be of profit for the future when a more plentiful supply of gas and tires is available. It should serve more than that saving, including the safety of life and limb and, what is worth much, the promotion of good humor.

The old adage that you can't get something for nothing is being impressed on Hitler in Russia, where his current campaign is the most costly of his career.

An Old Timer is one who remembers when the world's biggest worry was a comic opera personage known as the Kaiser.

True to their traditional contrariness, Russian armies continue to fight after the Nazis report their annihilation.

Those who set out to conquer the world soon discover that they took in too much territory.

Hitler's "new order" in Europe seems to be rapidly turning into disorder in some sectors.

The Man of Glamour

By MARSHALL MASLIN

I remember, when I was a boy of about 13, I worked for a few summer weeks in a temporary office maintained by a group of men who had come to our town to straighten out a tangle that had something to do with freight cars for the apple shippers. . . . My job was to sit at a desk and answer telephones. . . . Take messages. . . . Tell people who came in that Mr. Gliden or Mr. Russell would be "right back." I can't remember what Mr. Russell looked like. Like anybody else I suppose. But that Mr. Gliden fixed himself forever in the memory of a tongue-tied kid. I can describe him still.

Marshall Maslin

He wore a "dicer" and he carried a cane. He was smooth of face with dark gray eyes and he was tall. He dressed in a dark gray suit with white stripes about an inch apart. He wore a flower in his lapel, his shoes were fashionably buttoned, he wore gloves and he had a MANNER.

He had a manner in everything he did or said. He had a manner in the way he took off one glove and carried it in his right hand. He had a manner in the way he used the telephone. That's what I remember most of all. He used to call a telephone girl "Little Lady." He never hurried, he was never abrupt. He'd take the receiver from the hook and speak gently. He'd say: "Please give me Main 246. . . . Yes. . . . Thank you, Little Lady"—and it was wonderful for a small boy to hear.

That man had GLAMOUR. He had it like King Arthur—and Commander Peary—and Jim Jeffries before he fought Jack Johnson. He had even more of it than those heroes because he was right there in the room making a small boy wonder if he'd ever be able to swing a cane and say "Little Lady" on the telephone.

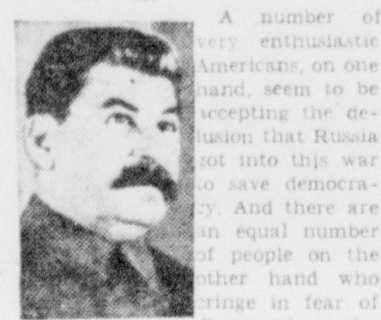

Well, I grew up and I lost my ambition to carry a cane and wear one glove and say "Little Lady" to anybody. I never grew so tall and I have never wanted a gray suit with white stripes and I can imagine what would happen if I said "Little Lady" to any of my friends in our telephone room.

But that Mr. Gliden WAS a shining figure for one small boy. He may have been just a city chap showing off in a country town but I don't fail to believe that. He was one of those rare individuals who take the raw stuff of life and embroider a handsome design upon it—and I still thank him for his performance in that little office so long ago.

Paul Mallon Says Realism Grounds Policy on Russia

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Some annoying and damaging confusion is evident here and there among the people over our policy toward Russia, and what will come out of it after the war.

Paul Mallon

A number of very enthusiastic Americans, on one hand, seem to be accepting the delusion that Russia got into this war to save democracy. And there are an equal number of people on the other hand who change in fear of Communism, rising in this country as a result of the victory we are going to win.

Above all, in both groups, there are people who think the subject should not even be mentioned, either for fear of rocking the boat or offending Stalin.

To make the situation appear even more complex, domestic enemies are coming out of the holes they entered while Russia was a passing ally of Hitler in Poland, and are disporting themselves in their publications again, advising us which Americans are loyal, what we should do about this and that.

Government Policy Approved

None of these nations has any basis in the plain and simple facts of the case, which are apparently being forgotten. The realistic policy of this government has long been adopted, is delivering the goods to Russia better than expected, and is generally approved.

All you have to do to understand its ramifications and its restrictions is to recall the facts of how it came about. If you keep these facts in mind there can be no confusion, fear—or political agitation.

Fact one is that Russia entered this war because she was attacked by Hitler. Before that she had worked Hitler's way, Russia is not a democracy. Primarily she is fighting for her existence.

We are fighting for our existence, a different kind of existence, but against the same enemy.

War must run always to the death, and in that kind of a situation, anyone who is not foolish will get every kind of help he can. Therefore, we have entered upon a joint venture which is, in effect, a mutually satisfactory partnership in war.

Not Political

It is not political. We have no treaties. We are merely working together for our own self-interests in a life and death struggle.

Now this does not mean we must marry Russia. It does not mean we must adopt her form of government, now or later. If she had the form of government of the Fiji Islands or Shanghai, it would be the same.

The administration seems to me to have kept these distinctions very carefully and clearly. Mr. Roosevelt has pushed the goods over to them, finished the credit, praised the great valor of the Russian army and completely avoided the confusing political angles.

If all citizens of this country had followed his example, there would be no reason for attempting now to clarify the situation.

Browder Case Our Own

Why the president freed Earl Browder, I do not know. I do not believe it was to please Russia, because no diplomat here suggested Stalin's diplomatic representatives ever concerned themselves with the Browder passport case.

As a matter of fact, Stalin's diplomats stay as far away as they can from the domestic Communist party.

Unfortunately, the domestic Communies do not conduct themselves with the same restraint. Their publications seem to want to decide strictly American issues. If anyone says the Russians advanced only three miles instead of five, they are inclined to shout "Fascist" at him.

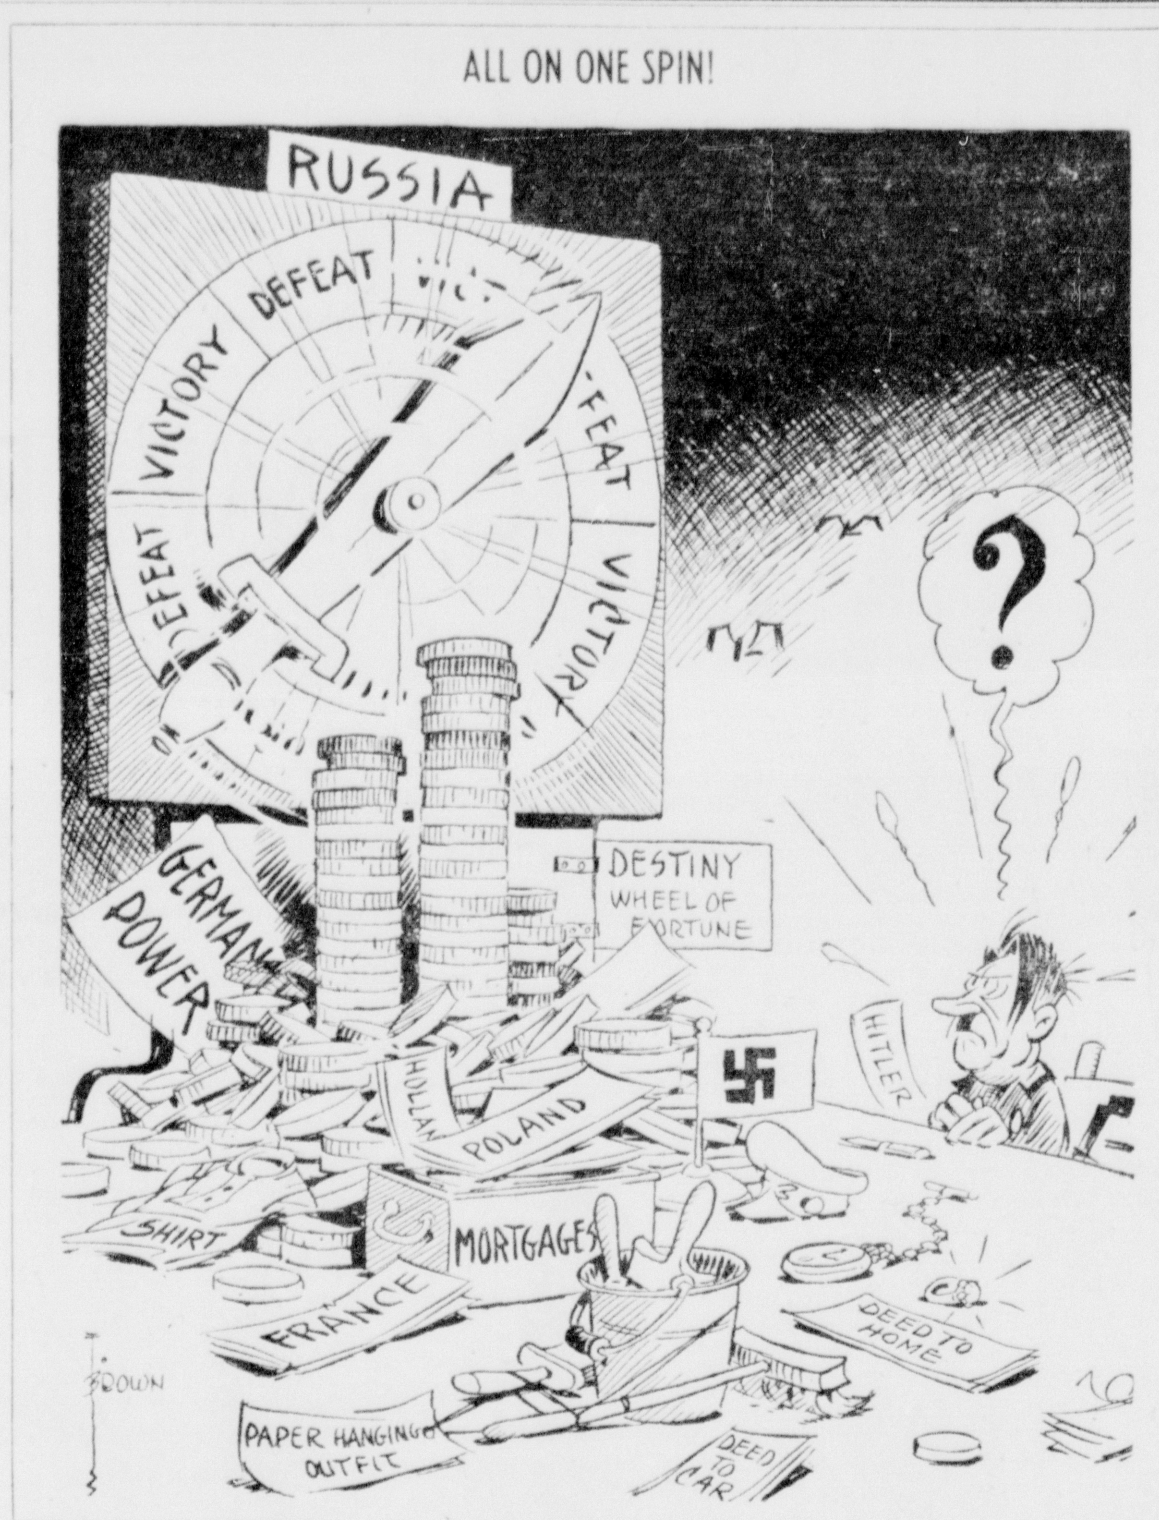

Indeed, if allowed to run loose the way they are going, they will have us all believing before this war is over that they personally saved democracy, although all we are getting from them is critical advice. There lies our danger and there lies the cause of the confusion.

fusion, not in the governments, and not in the policy.

Points To Remember

If you meet those of this ilk in argument or in print, just remind them that Russia initially made the war possible by her treaty with Hitler and her actions in Poland; that he tried to help Finland when she was attacked by Russia; that neither political agitation nor false emotionalism will help either of us right now; that we both are in this matter for our own good reasons; that our governments seem to know it and are doing a damned good joint job of accomplishing victory without getting into sideline arguments.

If we keep things on that basis, no one will be fooled now or later.

Maryland Farm Musings

By the Extension Service of the University of Maryland

The gross income from eggs, broilers, farm chickens, and turkeys reached an all-time high during 1941 in Maryland, according to Dr. M. A. Jull, head of the University of Maryland Poultry Department. He says that the gross income from these products was $21,623,000, or an increase of $5,102,000 over 1940.

Maryland farmers and dairymen should make every effort to save their metal dairy equipment, as it may be difficult to replace them from now on, says John A. Conover, specialist in dairying for the University of Maryland Extension Service. One of the best ways to preserve it, he states, is to keep it clean.

A purebred Aberdeen-Angus heifer, Coppins Erica Maid, will be presented to the animal husbandry department at the University of Maryland by Mrs. H. C. Davidson, it is announced by Dr. Fred H. Leinbach, head of the department. This heifer was selected by Dr. Leinbach from a large group at the 1942 annual spring sale of the Maryland Aberdeen-Angus Breeders' Association. Her breeding is such, he states, that she will fit well into the breeding program already started at the University.

A Holstein cow owned by the University of Maryland has produced sufficient milk during the last twelve months to supply all the milk needed for one boy from the time of his birth until he is old enough to become a United States senator, according to the Holstein-Friesian Association of America. This Holstein is long on name and pedigree as well as production, being officially recorded as Beauty Burke Sensation. She produced 23,474 pounds of milk and 803 pounds of butterfat during the year.

The tax program now being written, in tentative form, by the House Ways and Means committee, is a search for new revenue. Not merely revenue—but new forms of revenue, new sources to tap. The search starts from the fact, known to all, that there is—in the country's pockets, tills and banks—a great quantity of new money, put there by the government, through its vast purchases of war material. The problem of the Ways and Means committee is to get back some of this money, especially by taxation, but also by borrowing.

The new money can be divided into two kinds, according to where it is now. Some of it is in the hands of corporations and business men, in the form of profits on war contracts. For getting back most of this, the government already has ways. One way is the "excess profits" tax, tentatively fixed at ninety-four per cent. Another way is by the tax rates on individual incomes, so graduated as to take a very large portion of the upper parts of large incomes. These rates already, in the tax law of 1940, were as high as twenty-five per cent on that part of an individual's income which is over $20,000 a year—and on up, to seventy-four per cent on the upper part of extremely large incomes. Some of these rates were increased last year, and will be still further increased by the tax measure now being written.

By such rates on individual incomes, and by the excess profits tax, the government will get back as much as is practical of the new money going into the hands of business men, corporations and their stockholders. Getting back this part of the new money involves nothing novel or difficult.

But there is another part—much the larger part—of the new money. It is that which goes into the pockets of wage earners. Wage earners who two or three years ago earned fifty cents an hour, now earn $1. or $1.50. Many who then were employed only half time or less, perhaps as little as 100 days in a year, now work every day. Workers who then earned $1,000 in a year, now earn two, three or four thousand. The aggregate of new money going into the hands of wage earners is enormous. The necessity of getting back a considerable portion of the wage earner's new money is the new thing in the tax bill now being drafted.

For this purpose some five devices are proposed. One is simply to increase the rates on lower incomes. Some increase will certainly be made.

A second device is to lower the exemptions—that is, tax a larger portion of the income. At present, an unmarried person pays tax only on that part of his income which is above $750. It is proposed to reduce this exemption to $500. Some reduction is very likely to be made from the present exemptions of both single and married.

Lowering the exemptions creates a new problem. Millions of persons who in the past have paid no tax, will have to pay a few dollars, or at least make out returns. Examining returns is an expense to the government. To offset this, it is suggested that every person making out a return pay a tax of $5 or so, as a kind of service charge.

A fourth suggestion is a sales tax, on everything anybody buys, with some exemptions, such as food.

A final suggestion says it would be a pity to take from workers, in taxes, any considerable portion of the good earnings they are now making; that this is their opportunity to accumulate savings. The new suggestion, instead of requiring men to pay heavy taxes, would substitute for part of the taxes, what is called "compulsory savings." A worker, and everyday else receiving any form of remuneration, would be required to accept part of—five per cent or ten, or what not in war bonds. The bonds would not be transferable, so they would be sure to remain in possession of those who got them, as certain savings.

These five are pending suggestions. Some will certainly be adopted. It may be that all will be adopted, and still more. The underlying fact is that the money must be got. It is an interesting sign of the times that there is occasional mention of lotteries as a possible way of raising national revenue; bills providing for a lottery have been introduced in Congress, but have not received serious attention.

The underlying condition is clear and imperative. The government simply must get back much of the new money it is creating. One reason is obvious—the government needs the money. A second reason, not always understood, has to do with inflation. If this great quantity of new money remains in the hands of those who receive it, they will start to buy things. But things to buy are scarce or non-existent—autos, tires, practically everything. A large amount of money, trying to buy a small amount of goods, would result in high prices, higher cost of living, danger of inflation.

Lawrence Finds War Effort Is More Favorable

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The United States war effort is proceeding more favorably than is generally imagined.

The succession of reverses, the necessary emphasis on lagging production at and the shortages and scarcities of vital materials have combined at times to give a pessimistic impression. Everything is relative. Of course, and the goals set are as yet far from realization but the facts which cannot be published in detail but which are known to many experts would seem to justify the statement that our progress is definitely encouraging.

American industry, its management strained by the necessity for unprecedented plant expansion, its contracts and specifications subject to change, often unavoidable, and its responsibilities of financing multiplied by unheard of figures, is doing a job of which the people may well be proud.

Labor Doing Excellently

American labor is doing a job that is not excelled by its performance in the First World War. It is a job so definitely inspired by patriotism and a desire to avoid friction that the number of interruptions, while in some respects serious, cannot possibly detract from the splendid record on the whole being written every day on the production front.

Enough has happened to warrant a conviction that President Roosevelt's goal of 60,000 planes this year and even 120,000 next year will be more than fulfilled. If Hans Thomsen, who has just returned to Lisbon en route to Germany from the embassy here, tells the Nazis, as he was quoted yesterday, that Mr. Roosevelt's program is still a bluff, he will some day find the wrath of his own people turned upon him. The German people ought to be told by short wave broadcast what's coming. They do not know that the biggest source of explosives in the world is turning out bombs in greater quantity than that of any other nation in the world and that our aircraft production already exceeds that of all other nations in the world.

Different Worry

As for tanks and guns, we are moving very rapidly toward peak production. Will we have the manpower mobilized and the ships built by early 1943 in quantities sufficient to operate the enormous quantities of weapons we shall be turning out? This is a different kind of worry from that which has existed heretofore when there was enough manpower in Europe but not enough planes or weapons on the Allied side for defense, much less for counter-attack.

We have helped the Russians—not as much as we would have liked but considerably and there is an endless supply coming. The United States Navy has done an excellent job of convoying in the Atlantic. We are moving toward the European front with relatively strong units of strength which will be blended with manpower on the European continent at the proper time.

Pacific Situation Improves

In the Pacific the fight goes slowly but surely toward ultimate victory. Our air forces are doing a magnificent job of defense. In due time we shall have air superiority. We do not yet have air equality. Meanwhile, the navy is clicking with an efficiency that is not spectacular but is quietly effective. The army air corps is beginning to operate within wider limits every day. Once air superiority is achieved there will be risks taken with surface ships that will prove a critical challenge to the Japanese navy.

It takes weeks and months to transport fighting planes and materials to our outlying bases. But American effort in the Pacific, doggedly pursued against insuperable odds of distance and superior bases favoring the enemy, is beginning to take a steady toll out of the enemy's limited air strength and limited sea power. Joseph Kaylor Is Named State Forester

BALTIMORE, May 20. (P)—The appointment of Joseph F. Kaylor, of Rockville, as Maryland State Forester has been announced by Col. Harry C. Jones, state employment commissioner. Kaylor was assistant state forester in Indiana for more than seven years and since 1936 has been with the United States Forest Service in Washington. His appointment and that of Karl E. Pfeiffer, present assistant state forester, to be his deputy are effective immediately. Kaylor, however, is not expected to take office until June 1. He succeeds Fred W. Besley, Maryland's first forester. Kaylor was graduated from the Pennsylvania State Forest School in 1927, worked in Indiana with the Tennessee Valley Authority and with the United States Forest Service. The post pays $4,800 per year. Joe Cronin, Red Sox manager, will go back to short if his young star, Johnny Pesky, is drafted. Stan Musial of the Cardinals is only twenty-one but has a two-year-old son.

Big Scores in Old Days

In 1865 and 1866 the Philadelphia Athletics played nine games in which they scored 100 or more runs. They totaled 162, 131, 119, 118, 114, 107, 106, 104 and 101. The best their opponents could do in any game was to score 51 runs. When Russell Panoost, Miami Beach boxing promoter, was called into the Army Mrs. Panoost took over her husband's duties.

It is designed to help you buy thriftily, thoughtfully, and to take good care of what you buy. You can look upon it as your consumer's "bible" for we will tell you, as honestly as we know, what to look for in the things you buy, no matter where you buy them. As new ideas and substitutes appear on the market, we will inform you of them. In short, we pledge ourselves to help you make the necessary "half ration" experience ahead as pleasant as possible.

IF YOUR WORSTED SUIT HAS A SHINE, mix a small amount of vinegar with some water, dip a pressing cloth in it, place the pressing cloth on the right side of the fabric, and go over it with a warm iron. Practically all the shine will be eliminated.

DO YOU KNOW HOW TO KEEP CHROMIUM PLATE SHINY?

To keep the chromium-plated parts of your dinette set looking new wipe them with a dry, soft cloth each day. Use a damp cloth on spots only. When washing your kitchen floor, be sure to take the chromium-plated trimmed chairs and table out of the room, because even though chrome-plate is rust-resistant, if you scratch it the water may rust the metal underneath the scratch.

IS YOUR LINOLEUM ALWAYS A MESS?

Well, it shouldn't be, for linoleum is very easy to keep clean when you know how. If it is kept waxed, a dry dust mop is generally all that you need to keep it in first-class condition. Wax will take most of the wear off the linoleum, too, and help it last longer! Scrub only when the linoleum is dirty. When washing, be sure to use soaps free from alkali, alkaline salts, or abrasives, and apply with a wrung-out cloth as lightly as possible.

Dr. John W. Link To Speak To Young People May 26

Special Program Will Be Presented in Centre Street Church

The Young Adults of the Cumberland sub-district of the Methodist church will be guests of the Cumberland sub-district Young Adult Cabinet at a banquet to be held at 6:30 o'clock May 26 in the social hall of the Centre Street Methodist church.

Dr. John W. Link will be the speaker. Dr. Link is a member of the faculty of Western Maryland Theological Seminary, Westminster. The theme which will be followed throughout the banquet will be "Keep Them Flying." This slogan has reference to the importance of keeping the Christian flag flying side by side with the American flag in the world crisis today.

Dr. O. B. Langrill, Hagerstown, district superintendent of the Methodist church will preside at the business meeting.

The special program will include readings of original poetry by Mrs. John E. Grindle, Westminster; vocal selections by Mrs. Glenn Strickland, also of Westminster, with Miss Evelyn Biggs at the piano.

The sub-district cabinet officers will be elected and installed for the ensuing year, following the banquet. The district officers for the past year have been Mrs. Grace Williams Rice, William W. Beale, Robert S. Arrington, Miss Florence Shaffer, Walter Maxey, Miss Dorothy McDonald and Mrs. Hazel K. Beale.

Approximately 150 members are expected to attend.

Certificates Will Be Presented Winners in Four Events Here

L. E. Van Sant has just received from the American Red Cross in Washington, D. C., appropriately inscribed certificates to be awarded to the winners in the tennis tournaments to be held Memorial day, Independence day and Labor day on local courts.

The tournaments sanctioned by the United States Lawn Tennis Association will be held for the benefit of the Allegheny County Chapter American Red Cross for war relief purposes.

The awards will be on four events women's singles, men's singles, mixed doubles and men's doubles.

The tournaments will be held in connection with the coast-to-coast programs sponsored by the United Lawn Tennis Association in conjunction with the National Red Cross War Relief Committee. Officials are stressing that players compete on their local courts instead of traveling to other sections in order to conserve gas and tires.

The committee in charge of arrangements includes Loraine Elsenberg, secretary for the tournament; Mrs. Gordon Lee Bowie, Country Club courts; Mr. Van Sant, Dingle courts; and Joseph Garlitz, Garlitz Recreation courts.

American Legion Bowlers To Dine

Favors will be presented and women will receive corsages at the American Legion Mixed Bowling League's annual banquet to be held at the Clary club tonight at 7:30 o'clock which will mark the close of the season. Lester Underdunk will be toastmaster and will introduce several persons who will make brief talks.

A cocktail party at 6:45 will precede the banquet. A dance will be held for members and their friends following the banquet, with Jimmy Andrews and his orchestra playing.

Mrs. Henry Vogel, Mrs. J. Tom Long, Mrs. J. Ralph Kelley, Mr. Underdunk, George Buskey, Alex Patton and Clarence Eyr.

Girl Scout Camp Rally To Be Held Saturday, June 6

Treasure and Scavenger Hunts Will Feature Sample Day at Camp

Treasure and scavenger hunts will be held at 3:30 o'clock June 6 in Constitution park, when a sample day at camp will be presented at the annual Girl Scout camp rally. The entire group will be divided into five units according to ages, the same as at camp.

At 5 o'clock there will be a camp cooking for the entire group which will include the Red Cross nutrition classes and anyone wishing to attend. All will receive their supper at a minimum cost.

The evening will be spent in a typical camp-fire program, at which time the pageant given during Girl Scout week by the Juliet Low group will be repeated.

The Cumberland Council of Girl Scouts is among the top rank at national headquarters for the percentage in membership increase, attendance at established and day camp and the leaders and council members having had training courses. However, it is still below the average ranking in enrollment according to the size of the city and attendance at weekend camp, due to the lack of leadership in the first instance and the lack of a site for the second.

The report was given by Miss Florence Ann Schlott, executive secretary, at the meeting of the council Tuesday. A resolution was passed to have a permanent week-end camping site on the Ellerslie road.

Miss Schlott also reported 1,105 blankets and cots would be available for evacuees in case of an emergency, according to a recent survey made by the scouts. The cookie sale netted $755.83. Mrs. Harold W. Smith reported for the organization committee.

An invitation to the council was extended by the Leaders' Association to attend the meeting June 10 at the little house, 72 Greene street.

Events in Brief

Election of officers will be held at the meeting of the Columbia street Parent-Teacher Association at 7:45 o'clock this evening. The party for the children at the close of the term will be discussed. Teachers will be in their rooms at 7 o'clock.

The Daughters Unit of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will meet at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow evening at the home.

A rummage sale will be held at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening in the parish hall of Trinity Lutheran church, corner of Smith and North Centre street.

Circle No. 4, Mrs. O. M. Marquis leader, will sponsor a rummage sale at 7 o'clock this evening in the basement of the Centre Street Methodist church.

Stomach Ulcers, Electrical Forces Of Brain Linked

New Discovery Is Reported to American Psychiatric Association

BOSTON, May 20 (AP)—Discovery of a link between electrical forces in the brain and stomach ulcers was reported to the American Psychiatric Association here.

The electrical forces in gray matter are shown in waves which are recorded by a moving pen when fine wires are pasted upon the scalp.

Report Made by Doctors

The people who have very regular waves, running uniformly ten to twelve a minute, are more apt to have stomach ulcers than those with less regular brain pulses.

The report was made by Doctors Sidney Rubin and Karl M. Bowman, of Bellevue hospital and New York University College of Medicine. Among 100 men, all with stomach ulcers, more than two-thirds had the regular brain waves.

The explanation for the ulcers, however, is not merely the electrical forces in gray matter, but rather the type of personality which these waves identify. The regular waves are called the dominant type, but paradoxically they go most of the time with a personality which is anything but dominant.

The people with this type of mind wave are dependent, passive and inclined to be receptive to other persons, they, however, do not like to be thwarted.

Strengthens Evidence

Character studies made in connection with the brain waves further strengthened the evidence of receptive personality. The majority of the stomach sufferers tended to let their wives have their own way, didn't argue with their better halves. More of this type head jobs a long time, were more content with their jobs, got into less trouble in their work and came from families with smaller numbers of children.

There were also ulcers among the folks with the aggressive brain waves, but only twenty per cent of the 100 were in this class. In between the two extremes of brain waves were nineteen per cent of the sufferers.

The physicians concluded that the brain wave findings are valuable in studying the type of personality likely to be susceptible to peptic ulcers.

Frederick Thayer, Garrett Attorney, Dies in Oakland

Was Active in Political, Civic and Religious Circles

OAKLAND, May 20.—Frederick A. Thayer, about 88, dean of Garrett County Bar, and resident of Oakland for more than sixty-five years, died at his home on Oak street early this morning after an illness of more than three months.

A man of varying activities during the early part of his career he served as state's attorney, postmaster of the Oakland office, a bank director and president, court auditor, and was much interested in the work of the Methodist church and Sunday school, holding important positions there.

Native of Garrett Mr. Thayer was born in this county August 1, 1854. He acquired his early education in public and private schools and from private tutors and later studied law under Thomas J. Peddicord. He was admitted to the bar in May, 1883, and opened an office in Oakland. After seven years he accepted the position of postmaster, having been appointed in 1890 by President Harrison.

In 1895 he was nominated on the Republican ticket for office of state's attorney and was elected by a large majority. He served in this capacity for twelve years. For five years he was clerk to the board of county commissioners and for a similar period served as deputy clerk of the circuit court.

Mr. Thayer was one of the founders of the First National Bank of Oakland, established in 1900 and has always been a director and member of the board. He was president at time of his death. He was a member of the Odd Fellows, Sheaf lodge, of Oakland, which laid out the Oakland cemetery. The organization is now extinct.

For the past twenty-five or thirty years he has confined his activities mostly to office practice. Last year he was named by the court of appeals on a committee to formulate new rules of practice and procedure. The rules went into effect September 1, 1941.

Member of Methodist Church In religious activities he was the senior member of St. Paul's Methodist church; was a member of the board of trustees for many years and president of that body at the time of his death. He was superintendent of the Methodist Sunday school for twenty years, succeeding the late Rev. J. M. Davis.

Surviving are three children, Dr. Rebecca Thayer, Wooster, Ohio; Ralph T. Thayer, Hagerstown; and Frederick A. Thayer, Jr., Oakland. Funeral services are scheduled for Friday at the Methodist church, with the Rev. Minor Sprague, pastor, officiating. Interment will be in Oakland cemetery.

One plant recently disclosed that the Army's medium tanks are coming off the assembly lines at a rate three and a half times faster than was thought possible a year ago.

Wiley Ford Man Is Charged with Careless Driving

A charge of careless driving was entered yesterday by city police against Allen Melvin Miller, Wiley Ford, W. Va., after the car he was driving was involved in an accident on Decatur street at 2 o'clock Monday morning.

James J. Condon, city detective, said Miller's car struck the automobile operated by Ralph Baird, 249 Gephart drive. Condon, Lieut. James E. Van and Officer P. C. Jenkins made the investigation.

A hearing is set for police court this morning at 9 o'clock.

With Our Boys In the Service

George L. Williamson, local attorney now in the army, arrived yesterday from his post in California for a visit with his mother, Mrs. Edith Williamson, 306 Mountain View drive. Williamson has been selected for the Officers Training School, Fort Benning, Ga.

Corp. William Housel, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. William Housel, Vale Summit, has entered Officers Training School, Fort Benning, Ga. Corp. Housel is a graduate of Frostburg State Teachers college and the University of Maryland. He has been in the army since last October.

Jesse R. La Rue, son of Mrs. Josephine La Rue, Elerslie, has been promoted to the rank of corporal at MacDill Field, Tampa, Fla., where he has been stationed since May 5, 1941.

Mrs. Raphael Winner, 521 Beall street, has received word from Fort Benning, Ga., that her son, Pvt. John P. Winner, has qualified as a member of the parachute troops. Pvt. Winner, a member of Company G, transferred to the "sky soldiers" a month ago. His mother received his diploma in parachuting.

Private Kenneth L. Valentine, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Valentine, 415 Independence street, has been transferred from Seattle, Wash., to the Army Air Base, Salt Lake City, Utah.

A recent draftee under local board No. 3, Harry T. Skelly, of Rawlings, has been assigned to Camp Wheeler, Georgia.

James C. Shay, Westport, enlisted for the parachute corps through the local Army recruiting office this morning. Other enlistments are Harry E. Wilson, Oakland; David L. Kitzmiller, Mt. Storm, W. Va., and Charles E. Kifer, Paw Paw, W. Va.

Pvt. James F. Rowan, 124 Seymour street, has been transferred from Barksdale Field, La., to 340 the Material Squadron, 317 the Air Base Group, Army Air Base, Fort Meyers, Florida.

PFC Jacob Wertz, Bedford, Pa., has been promoted as manager of the Lake Charles army flying school service stations and PFC Charles A. Zembower, of Bedford Valley, Pa., assisting manager. The boys received their promotion on May 1 at the Army Flying School, Lake Charles, Louisiana, where they have been stationed for several months. Zembower, formerly drove a truck for the Potomac fruit store.

W. C. Kirby, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Kirby, 938 Maryland avenue, has been promoted to Sergeant at A. P. Hill military reservation near Fredericksburg, Va.

Mrs. Theresa E. Rider, 415 Beall street, received word, her son, E. J. Rider, has been promoted to corporal at France Field, Panama Canal Zone.

Staff Sergeant Aden T. Miller, of Lonaconing, reported last Saturday for attendance at the Air Forces Administrative Officers' School in Miami, Fla. He had previously been stationed at Brooks Field, Texas, where he was an orderly room clerk in the 69th Material Squadron.

Cumberland's three local railroad freight agents are all represented by sons in the U. S. Army and their experiences show the possibilities in sight for men in the service.

Donald B. Whip, son of Homer D. Whip, B. and O. freight agent, was drafted last June, passed through Camp Meade and Lee and was then assigned to Coast Artillery at Camp Wallace, near Houston, Texas. In February he was sent to the Officer Candidate School, Coast Artillery, Anti-Aircraft, at Camp Davis, near Wilmington, N. C.

John L. Carnochan, Jr., son of the Western Maryland Railway and Pennsylvania Railroad joint agent, inducted in November, passed through the reception center at Camp Meade, then was assigned to Coast Artillery at Fort Eustis, Va. In March he was sent to Officer Candidate School at Fort Monroe, Va., then transferred to the same school at Camp Davis in which young Whip was located. These two men graduated a week apart and have both been commissioned second lieutenants. Whip remains at Camp Davis as platoon lieutenant and instructor while Carnochan has been assigned to service on the Pacific coast.

John L. Malone, the son of M. J. Malone, agent of the Cumberland and Pennsylvania Railroad, enlisted last August in the air service. He spent two weeks at Camp Meade, then was transferred to Keesler Field, Biloxi, Miss. He is now a corporal in the air corps supply service at Miami Beach, Fla. His application is now in for Officer Candidate training.

Are You LETTING IT RUN THROUGH YOUR FINGERS?

Earning more money these days? Good! But in times like these it's your patriotic duty to make your dollars count. Today, with Economy our victory slogan... with our country needing all the financial help we can give it... wasteful spending, extravagant spending, is out.

Bear that in mind when you go out to buy new clothes—whether for yourself or for your family. Here at Goldman's you couldn't be extravagant if you wanted to be. Even before the Government went in for "price ceilings" Goldman's policy was to keep prices down! Today this famous policy of low prices prevails with continuing vigor and advantage to you.

We repeat... Save your precious dollars. Help your country by buying bonds. And if you do need new clothes come to the Julian Goldman Store—the store for every member of the family as well as the store of low prices.

And whether you pay cash or buy on credit Goldman's prices are the same... uniformly low... with never a penny charge for credit.

Children may get nicknames which they at first dislike, which come to them more or less by accident of some experience or remark. Such nicknames are usually less annoying to children than those which describe some unusual physical trait.

As a rule we can do much to help our children to accept these new names in good fun and, indeed, to welcome them as signs of being a good fellow, of standing in well with the group. You and I know persons who capitalize on a nickname or irregular physical trait. They accept it as a mark of individuality. Their friends, therefore, do also.

Nicknames or no nicknames, we have difficulty in managing ourselves, our adult relatives, neighbors and friends. They will say stupid things right before our children; "Too bad Rebecca has so many freckles." "Jim's so tall and awkward." "Isn't Phil a little shrimp?" Remarks like these by grown-ups, who otherwise may be sensible, do all sorts of damage.

Let us do all we can to keep our children from thinking about the unwelcome traits which they cannot change. Once they become over-sensitive about matters of this sort, let us do our best to help them rise above these real or fancied handicaps, even to capitalize on them.

Q. Would you advise a girl in college, or having finished college, to enter nurse's training?

A. Yes; if she has good health and wishes to enter a rich field of service. Her college education won't be lost by any means. She'll have more to give to nursing and more to get from it. If the war were to end tomorrow thousands of nurses will be needed in the armed services of the United States for many years, and in various parts of the world. Besides, a nurse's training is excellent for motherhood.

Q. My son soon of draft age has lost interest in school. "What's the use?" he says.

Teasing Harmful To Children, Says Dr. Garry Myers

Youngsters Are Made To Suffer Because of Some Physical Trait

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Bill is twelve. He has curly red hair. Other children at school tease him about his hair. The chances are that some neighbor, or aunt, or other relative, at some time dropped a remark which made the boy think curly red hair was not the thing for boys to have. Some members of the family may, indeed, have teased the owner of the ruddy curls.

Many a child is made to suffer on account of some physical trait, particularly the adolescent child. He may have freckles, be very fat or very skinny, very tall or very short. He may have a scar on his face caused by an injury, or it may be a birthmark. No matter what the physical trait in which he is different from the average child, he has been reminded of being different. The home folks may have been the first offenders. Perhaps they nicknamed him "Half-pint" or "Skinny" or "Fat," constantly reminding him of the way he differed from other children, constantly associating in his mind the ridicule of his friends.

Children may get nicknames which they at first dislike, which come to them more or less by accident of some experience or remark. Such nicknames are usually less annoying to children than those which describe some unusual physical trait.

As a rule we can do much to help our children to accept these new names in good fun and, indeed, to welcome them as signs of being a good fellow, of standing in well with the group. You and I know persons who capitalize on a nickname or irregular physical trait. They accept it as a mark of individuality. Their friends, therefore, do also.

Nicknames or no nicknames, we have difficulty in managing ourselves, our adult relatives, neighbors and friends. They will say stupid things right before our children; "Too bad Rebecca has so many freckles." "Jim's so tall and awkward." "Isn't Phil a little shrimp?" Remarks like these by grown-ups, who otherwise may be sensible, do all sorts of damage.

Let us do all we can to keep our children from thinking about the unwelcome traits which they cannot change. Once they become over-sensitive about matters of this sort, let us do our best to help them rise above these real or fancied handicaps, even to capitalize on them.

Use of Gas Termed One of the Least Brutal Methods of Waging Warfare

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
The war gases have not found their way into the newspapers very much during the present conflict. This is not entirely due, I understand, to the strength of popular prejudice against them. As a matter of fact, there is little use in talking about prejudice against various forms of lethal weapons. Men most familiar with its various aspects state that the use of gas is one of the least brutal methods of warfare. Neither at the time nor afterward is gas poisoning nearly as bad as gunshot wounds. Prentice said in 1935:

"If the man who is gassed survives the war, he comes out body-whole as God made him, not the legless, armless or deformed cripple produced by the mangle, rending effects of high explosives, gunshot wounds and bayonet thrusts."

No Chance To Use Gas

The real reason for the lack of prominence of gas in this war is that practically nobody who was in retreat had gases to use or a chance to use them. A prominent military observer told me the other day that it is quite possible that the Germans will use gas as a defensive measure if they have to retreat before the Russian army this spring. The Russians and the Greeks didn't have gas so they couldn't use it when they retreated. Gas is a poor weapon to use on the offensive, because if you lay down a barrage of gas, you have to move your own army immediately into it while the other army moves away from it.

War gases are classified on the basis of their chemical properties and the kind of action they have. They can also be very carefully selected with a view to their particular kind of action to tactical advantage. There are five general kinds of war gases:

Lachrymators—These have a more or less selective action on the eye. In other words, they can be breathed in without doing any harm but they cause a large secretion of tears, pain and swelling of the eye and temporary blindness. They have few if any after effects and their main use is temporarily to reduce the fighting efficiency of the enemy.

Sterutators are those which irritate the upper respiratory tract. They cause sneezing, coughing, intense headache, vomiting and thus create physical disability. Most of them have a considerable amount of penetrability and can get through the gas mask and cause the soldier to remove the mask, thus exposing him to other more toxic gases which are usually employed at the same time.

Irritants of Lungs

Lung Irritants—Some of these simply irritate the bronchial tubes and some of them penetrate the lung cells, perhaps to produce more lasting and permanent disability. Vesicants—These act on the surface of the body to produce irritation and blistering. The skin, the eye and the respiratory tract are particularly vulnerable to their action.

Systemic Toxic Agents—This group was a great disappointment to the Germans in the last war. Theoretically, they would be the best of the gases because they would overwhelm the enemy with poisonous effects. But they were found unsuitable for chemical warfare because it was almost impossible to produce lethal concentrations on the battlefield. Sub-lethal concentrations were harmless.

Answer: There is no danger in a second operation for hemorrhoids provided it is done in a skillful manner.

No "X" Cards Are Issued at Meade

May 19 (AP)—Not a single X card was issued in the two-day gasoline registration, post ration officials have revealed. Of the several hundred cards issued, approximately twenty-five per cent were A cards.

Gasoline sales at the main exchange service station on May 15, of 1,063,800.

the first day of rationing dropped to little more than an eighth of the May 14 total from 4,000 to 540 gallons, officials said.

Rapid expansion of consumer income in the United States has resulted in substantial savings by individuals, according to the department of Commerce.

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour 2 pints of bile into your bowels every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Then gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes three good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up" all a package today. Take as directed. Effective in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills, 10c and 25c. Advertisement

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

WHEN STEENA told young Dr. Dare to leave everything to her in their plan to make both Tibby and Wayne Courtwright jealous, she had not known what her campaign would consist of, or how it would begin, but she knew it was a clever idea and a sound one, too. All Tommy had to do, as she also had told him, was to do what he was told, men were not nearly so clever as women when it came to managing affairs of the heart. Tommy would, of course, be necessary to Steena's plan, but she would be its general.

As the first strategic move—really a blitz, since it was such a lightning stroke—Steena informed Tibby next day, after she had returned from her flight to Kansas City, that her young doctor had called during her absence.

Tibby said, "He did?" She looked a bit startled, yet decidedly pleased. Steena did not know it, but this was because Tibby had been wondering when Tommy would call up or drop in and what he would have to say and how he would act, because of the way she had sailed out, leaving him practically speechless, the night of the aviation ball.

"I hope you don't MIND," Steena said sweetly. She looked pleased, too, her green eyes very innocent, her smile a bit beseeching.

"Mind?" Tibby did not quite see why Steena should say that. She wondered if Tommy had minded that she had not been at home, although what she was wondering most, of course—being feminine—was if seeing her in her white dress had had the desired effect on him. She had vowed she would one day make Tommy Dare up, make him realize that she was grown up and not just a girl he had known all his life, whom he could take for granted, a girl he could propose to, then immediately withdraw his proposal.

"You see, he called on ME," Steena said in that same sweet tone.

"On you?" Tibby sounded surprised and a bit doubtful.

"He phoned first," Steena explained, "to ask if it would be all right for him to come out." That was more than he usually did when he came to see Tibby. "We had a LOVELY evening," Steena stressed the loveliness more than may have been necessary when you stopped to think that all they had done was talk awhile, and that when Steena had finally admitted Tibby was not expected back that night, Tommy had got up and taken a most abrupt departure.

Of course, Tibby did not know any of that. She knew that a "lovely evening" to Steena meant a gay and exciting one. The sort of evening, Tibby had complained. When seldom gave her when he took her out. She said, "You did? That's nice." But it sounded kind of flat, not, of course, because Tibby cared if Tommy had had a date with Steena—behind her back, so to speak, which didn't seem like Tommy—but because she knew that the white dress had failed to make the desired impression.

"Simply lovely," Steena repeated finally, as if to convince herself, as well as Tibby. She looked at the other girl under her long, lowered lashes. "You DON'T mind, do you?" she asked again.

"Why should I?" Tibby inquired, as she had 14½ ago, when Marg had warned her that Steena might make a "play" for Tommy. "Tommy is a free agent," she had said that to Marg then, too, that Tommy was not her "property." She also had agreed with Marg that Tommy was glib, as were most nice men, and that someone ought to look after him.

"That's practically what he told me," Steena said. "Naturally I thought you and he were friends of such LONG standing..." But Tommy said a man couldn't get excited about a girl he had known when she had freckles and wore her hair in pig-tails and whose hands had always been dirty.

"He said that!" Steena nodded. He had said it—every word, just as she had repeated it. Only he had added, "At least you'd THINK he couldn't!" Meaning that the miracle was that he had discovered he could, for Tommy had not, during that "lovely evening," given Steena any reason to doubt his love for Tibby.

"Well!" This was the biggest surprise of all. Tibby never would have thought Tommy would say anything about her. Dirty hands, indeed—she had been a dirty little boy, too, with small wonder, the way they had played as kids back home, into everything, sharing everything.

... It HURT, Tibby discovered, to find that Tommy would say such things about her, even if they were true, but at least she knew now. Even the white dress, her air of mystery, the fact that she had been going to a dance, and not alone, all these did not make her one whit exciting in Tommy's eyes. He would never think of her as grown up, different. He would never propose again.

"Then you won't mind," Steena said, "that Tommy's coming to see me and take me out somewhere again this week-end. I just wanted to be sure." She knew that Tibby did mind. Anyone could tell that by the way she tried to appear so indifferent, as if she did not mind at all. Steena only hoped that her campaign would work as well on Wayne, for she had a sort of half-date with him for the week-end— which she would break, telling him she had another engagement.

"I hope you have another lovely evening," Tibby said. She supposed Tommy found Steena exciting. He had seemed much impressed that first time he had seen her, He would not remember Steena as a little girl with pig-tails and a dirty face. She had supposed he might find someone else after withdrawing his proposal, but she had hardly expected him to find someone so quickly.

Wasn't there something about being caught on the rebound? Yet Tibby could have wished someone might have caught Tommy besides Steena. Was it possible that Steena knew he was not the kind of man Steena would be seriously interested in, not a young doctor with years ahead before he could support a wife adequately. Steena's ambitions flew much higher. She wanted a man like Wayne. Tibby was sure of that.

Yet Steena said now, with a rather tremulous sigh, "He certainly is handsome!"

And Tibby knew she meant Tommy, not Courtwright, although, of course, Wayne was distinguished looking. Tibby said, "He's poor. At least he will be for some time," for Tommy was bound to succeed, eventually, if, that is, he had the right woman to help him.

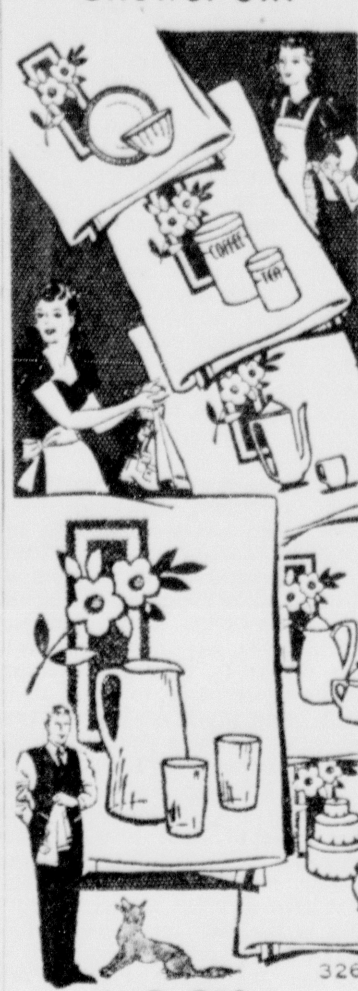

"That doesn't always matter as much as one might think," Steena returned somewhat dreamily, as if she were weighing money and love and various ingredients. "Besides," she gave Tibby one of her rare, bright smiles, "you know I'll have a little money of my own. Father cut Mother out of his will when she re-married. That will bring me a neat income, if not a fortune."

And that would mean, Tibby reflected, that Steena did not have to marry for money unless she chose. Identically, she reflected further, the conversation ended, it would be nice for Tommy to have a wife with an income. A good many young men who chose medicine realized they ought to pick a girl with a dowry to help through the first lean years, or one who could help in other ways, such as a nurse, for example. Maybe Tibby realized this, for no doubt Steena had let him know—or would, if she hadn't already—that she had an inheritance.

Goodness, you would think Tommy and Steena were engaged, instead of simply having had one date and about to have another! It was ridiculous for Tibby to get so worked up over something that might never happen. She could not understand why she should get worked up at all. She had said Tommy was a free agent and she meant it, even if she was hurt by the way he had talked about her. Hadn't Tibby told Wayne, too, when he had asked her so directly, that she was not engaged to Tommy? This left everybody free and single-hearted. Tibby could go out again with Wayne, as he had insisted she must again soon. Steena would no longer care, if she were going out with Tommy.

STATE LICENSES TO CONDUCT BUSINESS IN ALLEGANY COUNTY

Under an act of the Maryland Legislature, Sessions of 1929, a penalty of 10% per month will be charged for failure to renew Business Licenses; such as Traders, Cigarette, Billiard Tables, Garages, Laundries, Bowling Saloons, Moving Picture Theatres, Cleaning, Dyeing and Pressing, Restaurants, Soda Water Fountains, and others; by May 31st, each year.

Delinquent penalties will be taxed and collected by the State License Inspectors.

(Note: Licenses must be renewed by May 29th this year as the Court House will be closed Memorial Day, May 30 and on Sunday, May 31)

ROBERT JACKSON,

Clerk of the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland

"WE CANNOT HAVE ALL WE WANT IF OUR SOLDIERS AND SAILORS ARE TO HAVE ALL THEY NEED!"

—PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, April 27th, 1942

For example, you must give up some of the coffee you enjoy—but you'll do it gladly when you realize why you are making the sacrifice

THESE days, you are being called upon to "do without" for the sake of Victory. One of these sacrifices concerns your enjoyment of coffee. The War Production Board has placed restrictions on the distribution of all coffees. This means that now there is 25% less coffee to go around, than a year ago.

To meet this emergency, A&P asks that you share with your neighbor—that you buy only one package of coffee at a time. Some customers may wish to "buy as usual", but if they were permitted to, they would be depriving a friend or a neighbor of the equal right to enjoy coffee.

In the American way, you will accept the restriction willingly. And you can still enjoy coffee by conserving it right in your home, by avoiding waste in every way. Make only as much as you know you and your family will drink at a serving—and not one cup more. Perhaps you may even want to plan one meal without coffee each week. But whatever you do, be sure that every cup you brew is the best possible.

It's far better to have one cup of good coffee than two cups of poor coffee. Follow these simple rules for making good coffee—they're easy:

1. Buy coffee that is freshly roasted.
2. Buy coffee that is freshly ground and correctly ground for your coffeepot.
3. Be sure your coffeepot is absolutely clean.
4. Carefully measure both coffee and water—one heaping tablespoonful of coffee for each cup (½ pint) of water.
5. Serve immediately after brewing.

Follow these simple, practical rules. They'll help you make and enjoy perfect coffee every time. Don't waste coffee—give your full support to our government's conservation order. Enjoy coffee and share that pleasure with your neighbor.

Wage Increases May Be Banned By Government

Tighter Wage Controls Considered by Anti-Inflation Committee

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—The government's anti-inflation counselors are considering tighter wage controls, possibly by calling a halt to wage increases for persons now getting more than some specified minimum.

Chairman William H. Davis of the War Labor board disclosed that a committee of four was studying the necessity of a new presidential directive to deal with the question of increases granted by employers without resort to official mediation machinery. The directive, he hinted, might go so far as to take from management discretionary powers to grant increases above a specified income bracket.

Davis said at a press conference that the board's stabilization machinery has functioned only when an employer balked on wage demands, but that in many cases, for a number of reasons, employers were not resisting demands.

Citing Canada's wage controls Davis said:

"We might say we don't want any wage increases except for those getting below $25 a week."

He said he used the Canadian standard as an illustration and not necessarily as his view of a standard wage in the United States. He reiterated that he regarded absolute freezing as "a very tragic thing because it would bear down heaviest on the lowest income groups."

The labor board chairman also mentioned the possibility of industry-wide stabilization agreements. He cited the recent wage adjustment for shipyard workers as a possible pattern for implementing the president's mandate to stabilize wages.

Powerful Strand Film Has Star-Studded Cast

In line with its policy of showing the finest of the new crop of film entertainment, the Strand Theater will show "In This Our Life," Warner Brothers' picture of the successful novel by Ellen Glasgow. Betty Davis is starred in the film which starts tomorrow. As one of the most important pictures on the 1942 schedule, Warner Brothers' have produced "In This Our Life" on a grand scale, sparing no efforts in making the brilliant, absorbing novel come to life on the screen. John Huston, whose deft artistry is well known to motion picture audiences through his handling of "The Maltese Falcon," directed the film.

From the brilliant starring roles played by Miss Davis, Olivia de Havilland, George Brent and Dennis Morgan down to the smallest character "bit," the film has been cast with minute care.

The story is concerned with the vicious behavior of Stanley Timberlake, played by Miss Davis, and the havoc she wrought in other people's lives; especially that of her sister, Roy, portrayed by Olivia de Havilland.

Stanley, wild, inconsiderate, persuades her sister's husband, Peter, played by Dennis Morgan, to get a divorce and run off with her, regardless of the fact that she is engaged to Craig, an aspiring lawyer, played by George Brent. Not content with having disrupted two lives, Stanley drives Peter to such depths of despair that he commits suicide.

Stanley returns and finds that in her absence Roy and Craig have fallen in love. In her usual thoughtless but brutal manner she tries to break up the relationship, but fails. Not only does she fail, but in planning to win back Craig, Stanley meets a violent but just end.

Dietrich Stars As Glamour "Lady"

As Broadway's greatest star, and its dizziest, lovely Marlene Dietrich returns to the Liberty theater tomorrow in what has been hailed as one of the gayest fluffiest of the season, Columbia's "The Lady Is Willing." Produced and directed by Mitchell Leisen, and co-starring Fred MacMurray, "The Lady Is Willing" is Hollywood's pet candidate for the "tops" in current entertainment.

The Columbia comedy is said to reveal a "new" Dietrich, who plays her first screwball comedy role strictly for laughs. As an actress who is "all heart and no head," Marlene "kidnap" an abandoned infant from under the nose of the police. This to her way of thinking, automatically makes her a mother. When the news finally penetrates that a more lawful method of procedure might be better, but that she would have to be married in order to adopt the youngster legally, she promptly proposes to a young medico, bulldozes him into marriage and then—happy in possession of her baby—ignores him as completely as she can.

As the doctor who reports the baby's health is perfect, and prescribes psychiatry for the "mother," MacMurray is said to be a brilliant partner in the comic scheme of things. A specialist who has built up a formidable practice and who, withal, would rather play with rabbits in order to perfect a pneumonia cure, MacMurray is a reasonable sane addition to the Dietrich mania, which includes Stanley Ridges, as her jittery, creditor-dodging manager; Aline MacMahon, as her caustic and constantly-harassed secretary; and Ruth Ford, as her maid.

Starrett and Hayden Star in Embassy Western

Charles Starrett and Russell Hayden came to the Embassy theater today in a new thrilling Western, "Down Rio Grande Way." As always, these two entertain with action and thrills galore. The second feature is "Alias Boston Blackie" with Chester Morris and Adele Mara. Also another chapter "Dick Tracy vs. Crime."

Canned butter, especially processed so that it can be stored without refrigeration, has recently been developed for use of American troops abroad.

A man should never be ashamed to own that he has been in the wrong, it is but saying, "I am wiser today than yesterday."

New Korda Discovery Plays Romantic Role

If your child entertains at your parties with imitations of Deanne Durbin or Mickey Rooney, it is rather a sure sign that she won't be a great screen star. So says the grandmother of thirteen-year-old Patricia O'Rourke who, without previous stage or screen experience won the coveted role of Mahala opposite Sabu in Alexander Korda's Technicolor production of Rudyard Kipling's "Jungle Book" now at the Maryland theater.

"Too many children have been spoiled for stage or screen by parents who encourage childish imitations," says Mrs. O'Rourke. "The child thus grows up to be an imitator instead of a creator."

It was Patricia's unspoiled and wholesome quality that attracted Korda's attention and won her a test for the role, and now she is headed for a highly successful career, according to Korda.

Patricia was born in Hollywood and attended school there. For the at Bancroft's Junior High School directly across the street from the Korda Studios. Although Patricia tried out for the role of Mahala, she had made no previous attempt to crash the gates.

On her father's side there are several stage players in the family, but beyond that she has no theatrical connections. Tall, dark-haired and dark-eyed, she was found to be extremely photogenic in Kipling's "Jungle Book," and is therefore anxious to continue in pictures.

"Bad Men of Missouri" Now Showing at Garden

The Garden theater's new picture is "Bad Men of Missouri," a gripping saga of pioneer times, with Dennis Morgan playing the lead as Cole Younger, chieftain of the notorious gang of bank and train robbers that terrorized Missouri, Iowa and Kansas immediately after the Civil war.

Playing with Morgan are Wayne Morris as Bob Younger, Arthur Kennedy as Jim Younger, Jane Wyman as Mary Hathaway, Victor Jory as Banker William Merrick and Sam McDaniel as the servant, Wash.

The co-feature is "The Strawberry Blonde," with a triple line-up of stars headed by James Cagney. With him are Olivia de Havilland and Rita Hayworth, and an all-comedy featured cast, all of whom conspire to whisk us back to the gay days when mother was a girl and tandem bikes were all the rage.

HIGH EFFRONTERY

DID YOU ever have the effrontery to double a contract which you were certain an opponent could make, with extra tricks, for the purpose of scaring him into one which he might not be able to make, or at least in which he probably could not take any extra trick? That is a pretty daring maneuver and, if it does not work, it can cost you plenty of points. Knowledge of the mental habits of your opponents, especially the little matter of whether they are scorable, must govern your course when you consider such high jinks.

Funeral Notices

GRUBB—Paul Douglas, aged 42, Bowling Green, died Tuesday, May 19th, at Albany Hospital. The body will remain at the home where friends and relatives will be received and funeral services held Friday, 2:30 P. M. Rev. Randolph Keady, of Grace Baptist Church, will officiate. Interment in Rose Hill Cemetery. Arrangements by Hater Funeral Service. 5-21-42

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved father and husband, J. Perry Hinkle, who died one year ago, May 20, 1941.

One year has passed since that sad day when one we loved was called away. 'Tis strange, yet true, I wonder why. The good are always first to die. One of the best God could send. A loving father, a faithful friend. A beautiful memory left behind. In silence he suffered, in patience he bore. Till God called him home to suffer no more.

Sadly missed by his wife and daughter, MRS. SADIE EINHARD and MRS. WILMA BARK. MR. AND MRS. FORREST CORNER. 5-26-42

In loving remembrance of our dear mother, Mary Elizabeth Wright, who passed away May 21, 1940.

Two years have passed since that sad day when God sent down an angel. And took our darling Mother away. 'Tis sad, and we wonder why. You went away so quickly, Mother. Before we could say goodbye. We know you are now at rest.

And free from every pain. Dear Mother, we try not to weep. For in heaven we hope to meet again. And we trust you are guiding hand. Someday, all these things, we shall understand.

Sadly missed by her husband and children, MRS. LUCY ABE. 5-21-42

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks for the kindness and sympathy shown us during our bereavement, the death of our son and brother, William Roy Williams. Also for the beautiful floral tributes and for those who donated cars. And to the Oak Hill Lodge No. 53, for services rendered. MR. AND MRS. J. W. WILLIAMS AND SON. 5-21-42

William A. Gunter Will Speak at Fort Hill Commencement, May 28

Members of the graduating classes of Allegany and Fort Hill high schools will hear baccalaureate sermons delivered by local clergymen in the auditoriums of the schools Sunday, May 24, at 2:30 p. m. It was announced yesterday by Ralph R. Webster and Victor D. Helsey, principals.

The Rev. Charles H. Loyer, father of Herbert C. Loyer, a member of the graduating class, will deliver the sermon at Allegany high school, and will be assisted by the Rev. W. J. Lloyd, pastor of St. Mark's Evangelical church, Ellerslie.

Evangelist on Program

Active as a pastor for nineteen years, the Rev. Mr. Loyer has served as conference evangelist of the Central Pennsylvania Conference of the Evangelical church for the past four years. He makes his home in Cumberland.

Allegany's annual commencement exercises will be held in the school auditorium on Friday, May 29, at 3 p. m., with P. William Azmann, of Philadelphia, member of the school's graduating class of 1893 as the principal speaker.

The Rev. S. Register Neel, pastor of Trinity Methodist church, will deliver the sermon to the graduates of Fort Hill high school. He will be assisted by the Rev. L. B. Hensley, pastor of Southminster Presbyterian church and the Rev. Hiri A. Kessler, pastor of Kingsley Methodist church.

Gunter Will Speak

William A. Gunter, local attorney and former president of the Allegany County Board of Education, will be the principal speaker at the Fort Hill high school commencement exercises Thursday, May 28, at 8 p. m. in the school auditorium. He will address the 238 seniors, the largest graduating class in the school's history.

Tomorrow at 1 p. m. Fort Hill seniors will be honored at the junior assembly. The final senior assembly is scheduled for Tuesday, May 26.

Prom Scheduled Saturday

Fort Hill's senior prom will be held Saturday, May 23, from 8 to 11:45 p. m. in the school gymnasium. Jimmy Andrews and his orchestra will play.

Allegany's annual commencement will be held in the school auditorium Friday, May 29, at 3 p. m., with P. William Azmann, of Philadelphia, member of the school's graduating class of 1893 as the principal speaker.

The senior prom is scheduled for tomorrow evening in the school gym. Music will be furnished by Jimmy Andrews and his orchestra and dancing will hold sway from 8 o'clock until midnight.

Will Present Awards

At the final senior assembly, scheduled for Wednesday, May 27, at 2:30 p. m., awards for the year's activities will be announced. The awards will include swimming, baseball, track, declamation, year book, Alcohol Mirror and the projection club.

Charles Sheetz Hit by Car while Crossing Street

B. and O. Worker Suffers Fractures of Both Legs

Struck by an automobile as he was crossing the street at the intersection of Central avenue and Park street shortly after midnight yesterday, Charles Sheetz, 41, Dickerson Run, Pa., suffered fractures of both legs and a laceration over his right eye.

City Officer James J. Condon, who investigated, said the automobile that struck Sheetz was driven by W. Ralph Seibert, 635 North Centre street. No charges have been entered against him pending completion of the investigation.

Sheetz, employed as a pipe fitter's helper in the back shops of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, had gotten off a bus on Central avenue and then walked to the intersection of the street and Park.

After two automobiles had passed, Sheetz started to cross to the west side of Park street and had almost reached the curb when he was struck by the right fender of Seibert's car, Condon said.

Seibert stopped immediately and took the injured man to Allegany hospital.

Condon said it was drizzling rain at the time of the accident, making it difficult to see.

Bessie I. Marlens Asks Partial Divorce

Bessie Irene Marlens filed suit yesterday in circuit court for a partial divorce from Joseph Henry Earl Marlens. She charges cruelty.

The couple was married January 12, 1933, and have no children. Associate Judge William A. Huster signed a court order directing the defendant to pay the plaintiff counsel fees and temporary alimony pending a hearing in the case.

Interviews Will Be Given Men for Jobs At Pearl Harbor

A representative of the United States Civil Service Commission will be in Cumberland for the next few days to interview men for jobs as laborers at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. Immediate appointments will be given those who qualify.

Applicants must be over 18 years of age and citizens of the United States and be in reasonably good health. The wage rate is sixty-two cents an hour. Men interested can apply at the Civil Service room, third floor, post office building.

AFL Will Sponsor Bill To Increase Teacher Salaries

Convention Adopts Lucas Resolution; Delegates Return Home

A resolution, authored by Grayson L. Lucas, secretary of the Allegheny Trades Council, calling for the Maryland State and District of Columbia Federation of Labor to sponsor a bill in the state legislature making it mandatory upon the board of Allegheny county commissioners to increase the salaries of teachers, was adopted by unanimous vote of the 330 delegates who assembled Tuesday for the A. F. of L. convention in the Alexander hotel, Hagerstown.

Wording of Resolution

The resolution was worded as follows: "Whereas, the Allegheny County Teachers Union No. 708, of the American Federation of Labor, has requested an increase in salaries for all the teachers in Allegheny county due to the increase in the cost of living, and

"Whereas the Allegheny Trades Council and its affiliated unions are supporting the teachers in their fight for an increase in wages, and

"Whereas public opinion in Allegheny county is favorable to an increase in wages asked for by their representatives, and

"Whereas the board of county commissioners of Allegheny county (Md.) rejected the teachers' request even though it was just and reasonable.

"Therefore, be it resolved that the Maryland State and District of Columbia Federation of Labor sponsor a bill in the Maryland State Legislature making it mandatory upon the commissioners of Allegheny county to increase the salaries of the teachers and be it further resolved that all affiliated local unions of this body be notified of the proposed bill so that they will urge the state legislators from their districts to give it their support."

The resolution was approved by the Allegheny Trades Council on Tuesday, May 12.

Local delegates to the convention which was concluded yesterday afternoon were J. William Groves, of Barbours Local 314; Harold Dixon, of Bakers Local 246; C. E. Bramble and Bernard Harris, of Teamsters and Chauffeurs Local 453; William T. Duke, Milk Drivers Local 924; Milton Bever, of Luke Local 924; Paul England, of Machinists Local 1140 and Grayson L. Lucas, secretary of the Allegheny Trades Council. The delegates returned home last evening.

England was re-elected a vice-president of the state organization. State Senator Robert B. Kimble will address members of the newly organized Allegheny County Teachers Union this evening at 8 o'clock in the Central Y.M.C.A. Herman Hall, of Allegany high school, will preside.

SCHINE COMPANY ORDERED TO DISPOSE OF 15 THEATERS

Federal Judge John Knight signed a temporary order yesterday postponing the governments suit against the Schine Theater Chain for two years on condition the Schine company divest itself of fifteen theaters in its organization.

This action came as the anti-monopoly suit against the Schine firm was scheduled to open in Buffalo, N. Y. The government filed the suit August 7, 1939 against the firm alleging the operation of a string of theaters had established an illegal monopoly. Headquarters of the company is in Gloversville, N. Y.

Robert L. Wright, of the Justice Department's anti-trust division told the court the defendants "have consented to give up within one year from today all their interests in fifteen theaters in thirteen different towns acquired since the filing of this suit."

The agreement provides that the theaters will be offered to exhibitors who operated them immediately prior to their acquisition by the Schine Theaters, Wright asserted. If the former owners do not accept the offer within twenty days, the theaters may be sold to "independent exhibitors generally."

Theaters in which the Schine chain agreed to relinquish its interests, in addition to the Strand here, include:

Kentucky—Opera House and Ada Meade, Lexington; Viv, Corbin; Liberty, Pikeville; Margie Rand, Harlan.

Virginia—State and Appalachia, Appalachia.

Ohio—Cla-Zel and Lyric, Bowling Green.

SOUNDING THAT VICTORY NOTE— Army men are going all out with brass, reed and strings in melodious proof that they enjoy their off-duty jam sessions at one of the 400-odd larger USO service men's clubs. USO's 1942 program, to be carried out through the $32,000,000 war fund campaign, May 11-July 4, calls for operation of 450 clubhouses and 225 other units at army camps and navy stations.

VFW and Legion Complete Plans For 'Poppy Day'

10,000 Flowers Will Be Sold Saturday; Committees Appointed

Auxiliary units of two Cumberland service organizations yesterday completed plans for the sale of 10,000 poppies on the streets of Cumberland on Saturday, May 23, which will be observed as annual "Poppy Day."

A committee headed by Mrs. Rachel James, will have charge of the sale of 5,000 silk "Buddy Poppies" by the auxiliary of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Other members of the committee are Mrs. Hester Lindamood, Mrs. Grace Rosenberg and Mrs. Rosalie Everstine.

VFW Offers Prizes

Approximately fifty workers comprising members of the auxiliary, the daughters' unit and other volunteers will solicit funds for the V. F. W., with sale headquarters at the Henry Hart Post club rooms, 203 Union street. Four prizes will be awarded to those turning in the greatest amounts of money from the sale. One prize each will go to the auxiliary and daughters' unit and two prizes to outside volunteers. The sale will open at 6:30 a. m., and will be concluded about 9 p. m.

The auxiliary of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, will also conduct its poppy sale Saturday from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Mrs. David Allen, chairman, Mrs. Harry Bogler, Mrs. W. Earl Brooks, Mrs. Heyl Walker, Mrs. J. Thomas Long and Mrs. Harry L. Vogel comprise the Legion committee in charge of the sale.

Headquarters for the Legion sale will be established at the Legion home, Harrison street. The Legion auxiliary will attempt to duplicate last year's performance of selling 5,000 of the silk flowers.

Mrs. Vogel Will Speak

Members of the Legion auxiliary high school students and other volunteers will solicit funds for the poppies.

Mrs. Harry L. Vogel will speak in behalf of the Legion "Poppy Day" sale tomorrow at 6:15 p. m. over radio station WTBO.

Sacred Cantata Will Be Sung in B'er Chayim Temple Friday

The sacred cantata "Ruth" will be sung in Cumberland for the first time Friday night at 7:25 o'clock when it is presented at B'er Chayim Temple in celebration of the Festival of Shavuoth (Pentecost). The cantata is based on the Biblical story which is the traditional Scripture reading in the Synagogue on this festival.

Mrs. Blanche Stanton Gunter, will sing the role of Ruth; Mrs. Aaron H. Lefkowitz, that of Naomi with Jack Platt taking the role of Boaz. John S. Gridley will play the organ accompaniment.

The cantata is a special libretto, containing selected arias, duets and chorale. A running commentary of the story has been prepared by Rabbi Aaron H. Lefkowitz, who will serve as narrator, presenting some aspects of the historical background of "Ruth" and its meaning for mankind today.

87 Make Appointments For Plastic Surgery Clinic Here Saturday

Eighty-seven appointments have been made for the annual plastic surgery clinic which will be held Saturday, May 23, at the headquarters of the Allegheny County League for Crippled Children, Bedford street, it was announced yesterday by Miss Vivian Lambert, executive secretary.

Miss Lambert said that sixty of the appointments are from Allegheny county and twenty-seven from Garrett county.

The clinic will be in charge of Dr. Edward Kitowski, surgeon of Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, and will start at 9 a. m.

Dr. Kitowski will be assisted by Miss Jane Oliver, of the Maryland State Services for Crippled Children, Baltimore, and Mrs. Arthur Jones.

4,600 Persons Complete First Aid Courses Here in Last Five Months

Chairmen of Various Committees Report to Board of Directors

A report given by Karl G. Perry, chairman of first aid for the Allegheny County Chapter, American Red Cross, at last night's meeting of the board of directors revealed that a total of 4,600 persons have received certificates for completion of first aid courses since January 1, 1942.

The standard first aid course of twenty hours were completed by 2,600 persons while 2,000 members of various Civilian Defense units completed a ten-hour course in first aid. Classes were taught by 100 instructors who hold certificates qualifying them for such work.

Could Accommodate 5,000 Evacuees

Frederick A. Puderbaugh, chairman of the Disaster committee, reported a survey made of facilities in Allegheny county showed that 5,000 evacuees could be accommodated in the event of mass exodus from Atlantic coast towns in emergencies.

Twenty-eight classes in home nursing has resulted in 435 persons receiving certificates in this vital work. Mrs. A. M. Lichtenstein, chairman of the home nursing committee, reported.

Six classes in nutrition under the chairmanship of Mrs. Morris Rosenbaum have been completed. These classes required twenty hours of instruction.

For the first time since the last World War a report was given concerning activities on behalf of families of men in the armed forces. This work has become one of the major functions of the local chapter. The sum of $330.28 has been expended by the chapter in various ways to aid in this work.

Mrs. Irving Millenson, chairman of the staff assistants corps, was placed on the board of directors at last night's session. She directs the work of thirty volunteer workers who help operate the local Red Cross headquarters.

Work Is Discussed

Mrs. W. Lee Witherup, chapter chairman, and Mrs. Louise P. Coulehan, executive secretary, led in the director's discussion of all phases of Red Cross work since the war broke out. Exploratory talks were made on activities which the chapter would engage in during the coming months.

Others who attended the meeting were Dr. A. P. Dixon, chapter treasurer; Douglas Bowie, Victor Helsey, Dr. Theodore Shrop, W. Donald Smith, Mrs. Lucille Kraft, Western Post; Mrs. Arthur Hoff and Mrs. C. Creutzberg, both of Barton; Mrs. Clara Thomas, Eckhart; Miss Eleanor Sloan, Lonaconing; and Mrs. J. C. Cobey, Frostburg.

Injunction Asks Pollution of Mill Run Be Stopped

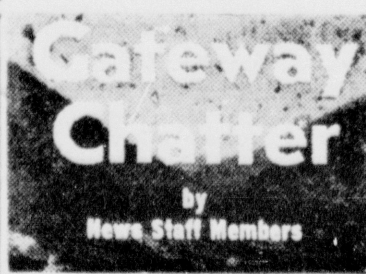

Equity Suit Is Filed Against S. C. Hansel, Real Estate Owner

Two suits were filed in circuit court yesterday by William C. Collins, through his attorney Walter C. Capper, against Charles S. Hansel. One is an equity suit which asks the court to issue an injunction against Hansel to stop the alleged depositing of sewage from the sewage in Rawlings near the banks of Mill Run. The bill of complaint states Hansel owns the houses and has piped sewer lines to the banks of the stream which flows through Collins property.

Pollution of the stream from sewage which seeps into the stream and a foul odor caused by the alleged practice is charged by Collins.

The other suit was brought by Collins to recover about $600 allegedly due him from Hansel for water rents, pasture and other accounts. The suit asks a total of $1,000 consisting of the $600 and damages.

Both Collins and Hansel have been involved in several suits in circuit court during the past year over water rights and other matters.

"Terry has returned home and all is forgiven."

In this brief statement to the press, Morgan C. Harris, state attorney, told of his fox terrier coming back to the old homestead after being reported missing.

The dog apparently read the ad in the paper, remarked the reporter, "Mebbe so," replied Mr. Harris.

The state's attorney told how he obtained possession of his pet up in Barton.

"A friend told me that he had some mighty fine pups and wanted me to have one of them," Morgan said.

"I'm not interested," the state attorney declared.

"Wait until you see it," his friend said.

Harris took the dog without asking any more questions so pleased was he with the looks of the friendly canine.

"Terry" left home Sunday night and his owner immediately placed a classified ad in the News.

He returned home Monday. Where he was nobody knows. "Terry" refused to talk even when questioned by the state's attorney.

Harris has a sneaking suspicion that "Terry" might have gone up to Barton to visit the home folks over the weekend.

The money set aside as the reward for "Terry's" return will be used to buy the pet a nice, juicy sirloin steak.

Held over by popular request is the way Bob Barnard, chairman of Allegheny County Rationing Board No. 1-1, put it in announcing that F. Allen Norton, special fuel representative of the OPA, will remain here until everything is straightened out on the county's gas rationing program.

Norton was scheduled to head for Washington Tuesday night but Barnard sent out a distress signal to the capital and "Smiling Al" will remain here "for the duration" or something.

The OPA expert has been here a week and he's made a big hit with those who have contacted him for advice relative to gas rationing. He runs across many "sour pans" in the course of his work but his affable manner usually sends 'em away smiling.

Al doesn't mind staying around Cumberland because Bob Barnard and the other members of the board are making his visit most pleasant. And last but not least, Norton says the country club golf course is better than that "lousy" layout he plays on in Washington.

St. Mary's Choral Club Holds Banquet

The St. Mary's Choral Club held a banquet last evening at the Algonquin hotel marking the close of the season. Musical games were played and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Margaret Carroll, Mrs. Kathleen Murphy, Miss Adelaide Hession, Mrs. Elizabeth Breighner and Miss Carmelita Whitehair.

Others attending were the Rev. Lawrence P. Landrigan, the Rev. W. Joyce Russell Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. Decker, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Simon K. Carroll, Mrs. Grace Burns, Mrs. Gerald Breighner, Mrs. Charles Breighner, Miss Madelyn Keech, Miss Retz Perkins, Miss Josephine Schultz, Miss Helen Cifala, Miss Mary Ralhe, Miss Catherine M. King, Miss Margaret V. King, Miss Gertrude Clancy, Leo Cunningham, Joseph Webb, Floyd Hout and Aloysius I. Smith.

Man Injures Head

John O'Donnell, 32, 16 Front street, was treated in Allegheny hospital at 2:45 p. m. yesterday afternoon for a head injury, suffered when he fell in the bolt and forge shops of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

"Y" Membership To Elect Thirty Directors June 1

Groups Will Cast Votes; Withdrawn Nominees Will Be Replaced

A permanent board of thirty directors for the Central Y.M.C.A. will be elected Monday, June 1, it was announced yesterday by F. Allen Weatherholt, business secretary.

Nominating committees named by the temporary board of directors have submitted two lists of thirty nominees from which the permanent board will be elected by the membership.

Each Group Elects 15

One of the lists is made up of sustaining members and will be voted on by mail only by sustaining members, who contribute $25 each a year for mortgage reduction purposes. The second list of nominees will be voted upon by the general membership in the Y.M.C.A. Each group will elect fifteen persons and the thirty successful candidates will make up the permanent board of thirty men and women.

Morris Rosenbaum and Franklin H. Ankeney, who were among the thirty named by the sustaining membership nominating committee, headed by Dr. Frank M. Wilson, have withdrawn and the committee will name two others to take their places. The general membership nominating committee is headed by Lloyd Rawlings.

"Cost of Living" Term Confuses Many Persons

Highest Prices Charged in March Must Be Posted by Merchants

The term, "cost of living" commodities, has been confused by some local merchants, rationing board officials who administer the OPA price ceiling regulation said yesterday.

Some merchants, it was explained, in reading the order making it mandatory for them to post in their stores lists of "costs of living" commodities, have misunderstood it to mean they must post the cost price of certain articles.

Such is not the case. The cost price is not to be posted. Instead, merchants must show the highest March price received for articles designated as "cost of living" items and must mark those figures as ceiling prices.

The general maximum price regulation released by the Office of Price Administration defines a "cost of living" commodity as "any commodity designated as such by the price administrator."

Commodities designed as "cost of living" articles include tobacco, packaged household drugs, toiletries and sundries, infant's food, ice cream, men's and boys' clothing, women's and girls' clothing, infants' clothing, yard goods, footwear, fresh beef, pork, cooked or smoked ham, frankfurters, canned fruits, vegetables and juices, groceries and household sundries, household appliances and equipment, furniture, furnishings, hardware, agricultural supplies, ice, fuel and automobile supplies.

Tar Pot Fire Is Extinguished

Firemen from Engine company No. 2 extinguished a tar pot fire at 6:30 o'clock yesterday morning at the intersection of Memorial and Kent avenues.

Tar was being heated for use on the streets there, firemen said, when it boiled over and caught fire. A tree was scorched by the heat.

Virgil "Red" Burns Reported "Missing" In Philippines

Mrs. Patrick R. Burns, of 119 Hanover street, has received notice from the War department that her son, Virgil "Red" Burns, is "missing" in the Philippines.

Burns was with American and Philippine troops on Bataan peninsula and may be a prisoner of war. The local Red Cross office said it will be several months before a list of prisoners of the Japs will be available. He was last heard of February 11.

Burns was a star athlete at LaSalle high school where he played football and basketball. He was originally stationed at an Army hospital in Manila.

Lewis Will Start His 28th Year As Camp Director

YMCA Issues Folders for 1942 Season which Opens on June 28

William H. "Uncle Bill" Lewis will serve as camp staff director for the twenty-eighth successive year when the thirty-fourth season of the Central Y.M.C.A. summer camp gets under way on Sunday, June 28, near Springfield, W. Va., on the South Branch of the Potomac river.

Lewis, general secretary of the "Y," became camp director in 1914 and has been in charge each season since that year.

Folders Are Issued

Folders containing data on the annual camp which attracted 302 regular campers and hundreds of visitors in 1941, are being mailed out this week, Lewis announced yesterday.

The camp periods for 1942 are: June 28 to July 26—Boys' camp. July 28 to August 18—Girls' camp. August 19 to 26—Police Boys camp.

Registrations for the boys' camp must be in on or before Sunday, June 21 to assure accommodations. Registrations for girls' camp must be in by Tuesday, July 21. A registration fee of $1 must accompany all applications which will be deducted from the first week's camp fee.

Associates members of the camp staff for this year will be Edwin L. Kuhn, physical director of the Y.M.C.A. and H. H. Beidleman, D.D. of Hanover, Pa. Russell Carter will be camp chief. The camp committee comprises Henry W. Price, chairman; Somerville Nicholson and Charles A. Piper.

Chaperone Is Named

The "Y" camp was primarily set up for boys but by popular demand a three-weeks' period immediately following the boys' camp has been assigned to girls for the past twenty-four years. Mrs. H. H. Beidleman will be chaperone and Mrs. Eleanor Burrows, trained nurse. Counselors will be selected.

Any boy or girl over eight years of age who has a good moral character and is willing to abide by the camp rules and regulations will be welcomed at the "Y" camp.

Work of putting the camp in shape for the opening of the season will be started about June 1. The buildings and grounds are being improved on the ten-acre site on Blue's Island and new canoes will be added to the camp fleet.

Clubs Seek Outing Dates

Lewis said that he has been approached by a number of clubs and organizations desiring a day's outing at the camp before the regular season opens and he hopes to make arrangements to accommodate these groups.

Information and application blanks may be obtained at the Central Y.M.C.A.

Debate Is Held By Members of Local Coin Club

A debate on which is the most interesting coin, pennies or nickels, was the feature of the regular meeting of the Coin club held last night in Central Y. M. C. A. Debaters on behalf of the pennies won the decision.

Penny supporters called attention to the popularity of the 1865 penny for which collectors pay as much as fifty or sixty dollars. The 1864 penny which commands a price of $15 also won merit for the penny team.

Debaters for the penny were Holmes H. Cessna, Hugh G. Funkhouser and Luther Hutter. William L. Wilson, Sr., Benjamin G. Charles and Joseph A. McCormick argued for the nickel.

The next meeting of the club will be held June 17 at Cessna's home on Bedford road.

Officers for the Philathea Bible class of Centre Street Methodist church will be elected at the monthly meeting to be held at 7:45 o'clock this evening, Mrs. L. E. Daugherty is chairman of the nominating committee and other members are Mrs. J. W. Holmes and Mrs. W. A. Strother.

Mrs. Vernon N. Ridgely will be the speaker and Mrs. George Fogtman the hostess for the evening.

First Report Will Be Made Today in Chest Campaign

Progress of Drive Will Be Made at Noon at Central Y. M. C. A.

The expectation that a fine report will be made at noon today was voiced yesterday by Community Chest officials as Cumberland's seventeenth campaign got underway.

Reports of progress of the drive will be made at noon daily, except Saturday and Sunday, at Central Y. M. C. A. until the campaign has been completed.

Yesterday most of the workers were busy soliciting in an effort to make large returns today and thus cut down working time in the drive.

Walter C. Capper, chairman of the campaign, said yesterday that luncheon will be served to workers in the Y. M. C. A. promptly at 12:15 p. m. Reports must be made to the campaign auditors before that time.

All reports will be audited before the report luncheons and only audited subscriptions will be reported to the score board. The audit will begin at 11:30 a. m. each report day.

Zebulon M. Hewitt, chief auditor for the campaign, will meet with his staff in Central Y. M. C. A. this morning at 11 o'clock.

Members of the auditing staff are Claude McDonald, Kelly-Springfield company; Mrs. Leo H. Ley, Mrs. W. J. Kelly, Jr., of D. P. Miller and company; Theresa Firle, McCrory's; Mary Louise Beeche, G. C. Murphy company; Teresa Firle, McCrory's; Boone, Edith Kaismore, Catherman's business school; Mary Louise Fair, Laing Lawler, Rosemary Squillace, Mary Lourdes Grabenstein, Catherine O'Rourke, Lee Doman
